ARMSTRONG DODGES VOTE ON HALL

Today

Paderewski, at 71. Millionaires, New Style. Smiling in Death. A Synthetic Life Cell.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

Von Moltke, straight as an arrow at ninety, dominating wherever he went, had power.

Bismarck, walking up the hill from his little inn at Gastein in the Austrian Tyrol, an orderly with a switch walking ahead of him, on his way to tell the Austrian and German emperors what to say to each other, possessed power amazing.

It showed in Pope Leo's transparent face, when he celebrated his jubilee at St. Peter's.

AND PADEREWSKI, seventy-one years old, possessed it yesterday afternoon as he walked across the stage in Carnegie Hall to play for the Young People's Symphony-Philharmonic concert.

Every human being in the great hall, crowded from the floor to the topmost gallery, rose as he entered. He was there not to entertain, but to command and impress.

He played with the power and spirit of youth and the authority of age. Musical critics will tell you how and what he played. The important thing is that his power of personality plays upon the imaginations of men and rules them. Hoechstes gluerck der erdenkinder sei nur die persoenlichkeit, says Goethe.

If any young musician is discouraged, let him remember Paderewski's experience. Intending to play the violin, he consulted a famous German teacher. The latter said to him:

"You will never be a musician, so you had better play the piano."

IN OLD DAYS, a man with one million dollars was "a millionaire." That modest pittance no longer means anything. A "millionaire" in the new financial language, is one who has one million or more of yearly income.

In 1928, five hundred and eleven Americans told Uncle Sam they had incomes of one million dollars or more. Several have fifty millions a year, and at least two or three have more. They represent the beginning of our billionaire class. There are probably six, certainly four, men in the United States worth a billion.

AND THAT harms nobody, of course, if the money is used wisely, and not used to corrupt politics.

A billion, or ten billions, in the hands of one man might be the best possible thing for a people that does not know enough to use its national property for its own good.

The great power in Niagara is a good thing for industry, because it is used for industry. So with great accumulations of money, turned in the right direction.

MARSHAL JOFFRE, dying, his foot amputated, sends for his old comrades, and smiles at them. A man who has served his country faithfully can die bravely. And Marshal Joffre's death recalls Victor Hugo's words:

DR. GEORGE W. CRILE, great Cleveland surgeon, shows assembled scientists life cells "artificially created" and believes that his discovery will help the war against cancer. Two thousand scientists assembled were interested in the fact that a living cell can be artificially produced.

"If that can be done," some will say, "why not an entire man, produced synthetically, making a creator unnecessary?"

SCIENCE MAY create life artificially. But how could it create thought? What synthetic arrangements of molecules and atoms could produce the imagination of a great poet!

Mere life is nothing. The important thing is that which exists apart from matter, without form, weight or volume, the soul of man. You cannot make that by any combination of atoms or molecules. You cannot create affection synthetically.

All the science in the world will never create the affection of a field mouse mother for its young.

BRITISH GENTLEMEN hunt stag on horses, stag hounds pursuing the frightened deer. That gives riders a good appetite for liquids and solids, and there is usually no complaint, since the deer can't write to the newspapers.

But, now the House of Commons and many others, in England, are excited because one stag, frightened by the hounds, ran off the south coast of England into the sea, and was drowned.

USUALLY THE stag shakes his tail once or twice, hops over the nearest fence, is gone, and seen no more.

But many in this country will agree with some kind-hearted members of Parliament that it is an outrage to pursue a stag with hounds, and drown the stag.

And we take calmly the fact that five hundred thousand traps, at this moment, are holding animals of different kinds, caught for their fur, and doomed to suffer agony, until the trapper, at his leisure, comes to release them.

Sometimes such an animal will bite off its leg, and thus

PRESIDENT O. K.'S RAIL COMBINE

4-System Plan Agreed to by Eastern Magnates Given Indorsement of Hoover

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The proposed consolidation of eastern railroads into four great trunk systems—the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate (Van Swearingens) has the full blessing of the Hoover administration, it was revealed at the White House today.

President Hoover himself was influential in promoting the meeting of the rail heads in New York yesterday at which a tentative merger agreement was signed. A number of points were left for arbitration, but the main essentials were agreed upon.

REGARDED AS FAIR

The merger plan as adopted is regarded by Mr. Hoover as fair to the communities affected and to the employes of the various systems. The railroads, he said in a statement, have been retarded in their development plans for ten years while other means of transportation have gone ahead.

The merger plan must go to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval or disapproval. The commission, not the administration, has the final say. It has a quasi-judicial function under the law, and it may or may not ap-

MERGER PLAN BOOSTS STOCKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Stock market bears who had been skeptical over the early prospect of railway consolidation received a shock today in the announcement from Washington that executives of the eastern trunk lines had agreed upon a unification plan.

The rail stocks were rushed up $2 to $8 a share—one of the sharpest advances of the year—as the bears scrambled to cover their short commitments. The entire share market was stimulated, leading industrials and utilities gaining $2 to more than $5.

Adele Ryan Wins Balm Suit Skirmish

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Miss Adele Ryan, granddaughter of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, has won the first skirmish in the $500,000 alienation of affections suit pending against her.

Supreme Court Justice Joseph M. Callahan has denied the application of Muriel Johnson, night club entertainer, to examine Miss Ryan before the case goes to trial. Mrs. Johnson alleges that the defendant transformed her wedded harmony team into a discordant one by stealing the affections of Bob Johnson, the other member. Mrs. Johnson is seeking a divorce.

FUMES KILL FIVE BOYS IN MINE

Father Finds Son Among Dead; Rescue Crews Carry Bodies From Gassy Pit

White crepe supplanted holly wreaths on five doors in Arlington avenue today. All within a block, they marked the homes of five boys who, for a lark or to bring back lumps of coal for household uses, entered an abandoned mine and died.

The quintet entered the black chamber with lighted candles shortly after noon yesterday. Five hours later a man, trailing behind a collie dog, fought the overpowering gases for 3,500 feet, and saw his son a victim of the disaster.

Three times the man and dog tried to bring the lifeless forms to the surface, only to fail. Firemen and police and mine experts, wearing gas masks, finally achieved the rescue.

TAKE 4 TO HOSPITALS

Four of the boys were rushed to hospitals, along with them Battalion Chief Saul Klein, one of the rescuers. The fifth youth was pronounced dead on the hillside, barren except for snow.

The boys were:

Walter Kubala, 15, of 3155 Arlington avenue, student of Ralston Industrial School, taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

For two hours experts from the United States Bureau of Mines,

DOG REVEALS MINE TRAGEDY

As though he knows his valiant effort to save five lives was in vain, Rover, a shepherd dog, today lies in the sub-floor kitchen of the home of Thomas Vogick, at 3247 Arlington avenue, sad-eyed and disturbed.

And as though he would console him Vogick patted the dirt-colored head, the sooty body that hid what might be a silken brown and white coat. A tear trickled down the old man's face as he talked to the dog:

"Where's John?"

The dog put one paw on the man's knee, looked at him.

The story began early yesterday afternoon when Rover appeared

Sproul Faces Loss Of Radio License

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Station WMBJ at Pittsburgh would be denied renewal of its license application under a recommendation made to the Federal Radio Commission today by Chief Examiner E. W. Pratt. The Rev. John W. Sproul, owner of WMBJ, was cited for violation of the commission's rules. WMBJ is now operating on probation until January 31.

Judge Declares Daughter Eloped Under 'Spell;' De Marco Blames Girl

Janice Marshall, 20, daughter of Judge Elder W. Marshall, was alternately portrayed as being under a strange spell of Cuddy DeMarco, former prize fighter, in their attempted elopement, and as the moving spirit of the escapade, in statements today by Judge Marshall and DeMarco.

The judge declared that his daughter, under influence of an "unexplainable yet potent" power wielded by the pugilist, had been taken to Cumberland, Md., where they were arrested at the father's request. She was in "deadly fear of his brutal threats," he asserted.

De Marco, in a cell in Edgewood Police Station, related that he had gone to a party in Mt. Lebanon Saturday night at Miss Marshall's insistence, had left the party after she had brought his coat and, finally had gone to Cumberland against his own wish and despite his advice that they postpone their marriage until Janice became of age.

FACES CHARGES

An information charging larceny of Judge Marshall's automobile has been preferred against De Marco before Justice of the Peace George R. Craig, of Edgewood. He is being held in default of $1,000 bail for a hearing.

The pugilist was brought here last night from Uniontown by

Extradition Granted For Bank Suspects

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Extradition of Harry Hoover, Edward Pichneys and Benny Lipkowvitz, wanted in Pittsburgh in connection with the $5,000 robbery of the Perry State Bank on December 13, was granted today by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The youths were arrested recently in New York. Lipkowvitz was shot in a struggle with detectives and is in a New York hospital, while the other two are held in Tombs Prison.

Grant Extension In Vote Machines

The Poole Engineering Company, which has the contract to supply Allegheny County with vote machines, today asked and was granted another extension of the delivery date by the county commissioners.

An extension of 90 days was granted because court litigations in various parts of the state necessitated the delay.

Louis Mann, Actor, Under Knife, Better

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Louis Mann, veteran American actor, was reported recovering today following an operation. It was announced his condition was not serious. The nature of the operation was not disclosed.

WABASH TUBE URGED AS ROAD

A proposal to purchase the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad bridge and tunnel piercing Mt. Washington and convert it into a public vehicular traffic tube was presented to the County Commissioners today by E. V. Babcock.

Babcock said he had been informed the bridge and tunnel could be acquired for around $4,000,000. It would relieve congestion in the Liberty Tubes and Point Bridge, he asserted, and would cost less than the projected West End traffic tubes.

SHIFT TERMINAL

Representatives of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad, formerly the Wabash, confirmed the report that the bridge and tunnel would be disposed of, if a buyer could be found.

Hoover Commutes Officer's Rum Term

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—President Hoover today commuted the sentence of Robert Rogo, former chief of police of Old Forge, Pa., who was serving a year in jail on a liquor charge.

NICOLA SITE PROPOSAL SILENCED

Chairman Withholds Backing On Babcock's Motion as McGovern Opposes Plan

Pittsburgh's proposed $6,000,000 Town Hall today was just as far, if not farther, from reality as it has been since it was suggested three years ago.

At a meeting of the county commissioners today Commissioner E. V. Babcock moved that the Nicola site in Schenley Farms he bought for the hall.

But neither Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong nor Commissioner C. C. McGovern seconded the motion.

After a few remarks by McGovern, Chairman Armstrong moved on to other business.

Babcock did not seem surprised when Armstrong failed to supply the second.

NO SECOND TO MOTION

Armstrong, who has voted with Babcock on almost every proposition brought before the Commissioners, was strangely silent after he had asked for a second to Babcock's motion. The he said:

"As there is no second there is nothing before the house and we will proceed to the regular business."

McGovern stood to speak, and reviewed his own stand on the Town Hall, which is that it shouldn't be built in the first place. Then he added:

"I am in favor of asking the State Legislature to rescind the bond issue voted by the taxpayers."

COMING UP AGAIN

Although Babcock did not betray surprise when Armstrong failed in the second, he said later that he really had been. Asked if he would bring up the town hall matter again, he said:

"Sure!"

Armstrong, when asked why he hadn't voted, did not answer, merely smiling.

And the minority commissioner, McGovern, said:

"What happened to Babcock's resolution is what happens to all of mine."

Armstrong later said:

"There was only one site presented today. After all the sites that have been talked about and investigated I feel very likely others will be presented, which will give the commissioners a broader scope from which to select."

BABCOCK STAND REVEALED

Today's was Babcock's first announcement that he favored the Nicola site, which is bounded by Fifth avenue, Bigelow boulevard, Ruskin and Lytton avenues.

Armstrong has never revealed which, if any site, he prefers.

Scores of meetings and hearings have been held on the matter.

Ex-State Secretary Of New York Dies

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Francis M. Hugo, 50, former secretary of state of New York, died today after an illness of several weeks. He had been suffering from heart trouble.

Coldest Weather of Year Sweeps on City

Automobile chains and heaters were doing double duty in Western Pennsylvania today as the mercury tobogganed towards a new low for the season.

The official forecast for tonight called for a temperature between 5 and 10 degrees above zero. Seven above was the low mark for November 27, and eight above for December 2.

Roads in all directions from Pittsburgh were treacherous for driving. Blizzards raged over practically all of this end of the state throughout last night and today. Thesnowfall in outlying districts was recorded as about six inches deep and drifting. The Lincoln highway east had from four to six inches, while in the city proper only an inch and a half was recorded, but the flakes packed solid as fast as they fell with heavy traffic pounding it into a treacherous covering of ice.

Snow plows were out on all the state highways. Roads are passable in every section, it was reported, but dangerous without chains.

The cold snap, according to weather forecasts, will last only a day or so, warmer weather being predicted for tomorrow night.

City Notables Get Low Auto License Numbers

The lowest 1931 license number in Allegheny County will be sported by James F. Woodward, of McKeesport, secretary of internal affairs under Gov. Fisher. His plates will say simply—6.

The lowest number issued thus far in Pittsburgh proper goes to Senator Reed, who received No. 22. He is closely followed by W. L. Mellon with 26 and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, won a No. 48.

Other fortunates, whose numbers will be gazed at twice by traffic cops, include Mary Flinn Lawrence, 29; James Francis Burke, 31; Mrs. Helen W. Mellon, 33; Paul C. Wolff, 49; W. G. Costin, 52; R. B. Mellon, 57; Richard K. Mellon, 59; County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, 62; Howard Rigby, 84; T. A. Mellon, 89.

Gov.-elect Pinchot, of course, will receive No. 1, and cabinet officers under Pinchot and Fisher will be favored with the next lowest numbers with one exception.

That exception is No. 5, which goes annually to Gen. W. A. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and arch political foe of Pinchot.

TOWN FORCE FLOUTED IN 1ST ALARM

State Officers Called Before Scottdale Authorities, Who Want to Know Why

By AL COUGH.
Staff Correspondent.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Dec. 30.—While state police today searched the countryside in an effort to apprehend two men who last night robbed the Broadway National Bank here and escaped with $20,422, Chief of Police Frank Ganoe, of Scottdale, was trying to learn why Scottdale police were not notified of the robbery by officials of the bank.

Patrolman Gus Hoffman, of the Scottdale police, told his chief that he was standing in front of the bank at the exact time the holdup was reported to have occurred. While standing at the bank the fire alarm sounded, and he crossed the street for a few moments to learn the location of the fire.

The chief said the two night patrolmen on duty were standing in front of the bank when state police from Greensburg and Uniontown arrived on the scene and asked them where the bank robbery had been staged. It was the first intimation local police had of the raid, Chief Ganoe said.

INSURANCE COVERS LOSS

John R. Byrne, president of the bank, announced that the missing money was fully covered by insurance. Business was being carried on as usual today.

The robbers found themselves facing an easy task when they walked through a side door in the bank building last night and into the banking rooms, where Cashier Thomas D. Byrne, son of the president, was preparing to do extra work on the books. After binding Byrne and covering him with a canvass, the pair scooped the money from the vault and fled.

TELLS OF HOLDUP

Byrne told police he had gone to the bank to work on the books. He had arranged for Frank Byrne and Ralph Bowers, clerks, to help him. Arriving early, the cashier left the side door unlocked for the clerks to enter. He had opened the vault and removed the books when the robbers entered, he said. Both were armed and their faces were covered with handkerchiefs.

One of the pair bound his wrists and ankles with strands taken from some Christmas decorations and covered him with a canvas. While the cashier lay helpless on the floor the men removed the money from the open vault.

A bag containing gold, silver and bills in the vault from which the bandits scooped their loot, was reported overlooked by the thugs.

Ten minutes after the pair had left Byrne dragged himself to a telephone, summoning Ernest Overholt, a bank director. Overholt released Byrne and notified state troopers. Byrne was able to give but a meager description of the pair.

SCORE SHAKEUP AT MT. LEBANON AS 'DEVILTRY'

Deposed Manager Brands Act of Comedy of Errors; Solicitor, Chairman Out

"The most outrageous piece of political deviltry Mt. Lebanon ever has witnessed, and one for which the citizens will have to pay!"

In these words G. J. Irwin, deposed township manager, today scored the political upheaval in Mt. Lebanon last night, in which an exchange of personal remarks was so spirited that at times those who crowded the meeting room applauded.

Irwin and Edwin B. Goldsmith, solicitor, were dismissed, and C. W. Scheck, chairman, was replaced.

Frank Cooke, secretary, succeeded Irwin as manager, while Samuel A. Schreiner was named to succeed Goldsmith, and F. W. Vitte, vice chairman, to succeed Scheck.

CALLED COMEDY

Scheck, in a fiery speech, termed the meeting a "comedy of errors," adding that he would not oppose the action of the board.

Irwin, reviewing the board's activities during the last three years, said today:

"Following the dismissal of Elijah Gray three years ago, Vitte came to me and said that I had been selected as township manager, and that when the time came for a permanent appointment I could depend upon his support. We have accomplished a number of things, among them new traffic ordinances, new building and plumbing code, notable amendments to the zoning ordinances, and have reorganized the police department to a point where it is one of the most effective in Western Pennsylvania.

"Then administrative affairs began to be badly disturbed by dismissals. First came the resignation of Supt. William Kane. The next step of the wrecking crew was the letting out of W. H. Roswell as plumbing and building inspector."

ASKS REORGANIZATION

Scarcely had the meeting opened when Commissioner Lewis C. Clark presented a resolution asking reorganization of the board of commissioners. He asked it, he said, "for the benefit of the township." He nominated Commissioner F. H. Vitte for chairman.

Chairman Scheck leaped to his feet and said:

"I feel gratified to be relieved of the chairmanship under the present circumstances and will not protest, although I feel it is being done in an illegal manner. We've watched this comedy of errors for the last three years. I want to see the last act. I'm afraid Chairman Vitte will be left holding the bag."

CHARGES 'HAMSTRINGING'

Jumping to his feet Irwin shouted:

"I took over the township management three years ago at the institution of the managerial form of government. I haven't had an opportunity. Political hamstrings have been around my neck. Vitte told me I might expect his support. This is the most dastardly political—"

After order had been restored, a motion was made naming Samuel Schreiner to replace Goldsmith as solicitor.

JUDGE SCORES DE MARCO, ELOPER

Chief of Police John Dyer, of Edgewood, the judge says, on a warrant. Dyer had denied knowing anything of the case.

In his statement Judge Marshall told of receiving a telegram from his daughter, from Charleroi, stating that she had been married, and of a hunt with Chief Dyer through three states in an effort to apprehend the pair. He doubted that they had been married and this later was substantiated, he said.

The statement in part:

"De Marco refused time and again to give my daughter funds with which to telephone her home, which request she tearfully made several times.

INFLUENCE PREVAILS

"His influence, unexplainable yet potent, finally prevailed and Janice was again in the strange condition of submissiveness to his order which she says has existed for months.

"My talks with my daughter tell me she is in deadly fear of this prize fighter and his constant brutal threats have entirely cowed her.

"His record, which is public, demonstrates his unfitness to associate with honorable, law-abiding persons.

"The fact that my daughter has never driven our Packard automobile and gave up all attempts to learn, cannot fail to lead to any conclusion other than that, dominated by De Marco, as she has always been, he was successful in forcing her to go to Cumberland, after Mr. Remmen was temporarily detained in the Dormont lockup for speeding.

"Remmen, who is a splendid young man, had taken Janice to Mt. Lebanon and was bringing her home when he was arrested for speeding. During his questioning at the borough lockup, DeMarco drove away with my frightened daughter."

DE MARCO'S VERSION

Here is eD Marco's version:

"Saturday evening I was at the Penn-Shady Hotel, East Liberty, planning to entertain a party of half a dozen people. A man in a Marine uniform came in and introduced himself as Mr. Remmen. He asked me to come outside to the car where Janice was sitting. They wanted me to leave my party and come with them. I had several drinks.

"Abuot 10 p. m., I received a telephone call from Mrs. Lowstuter, 121 Shady drive, Mt. Lebanon, inviting me to a party. Janice, Remmen and I went out. On our way I bought two pints of liquor and we all drank. After midnight Janice insisted that I leave with her and Remmen.

"Remmen tried to break Barney Oldfield's speed record and was arrested. Janice and I drove to the Fort Pitt and then to the Shady-Penn Hotel and borrowed money from different people, saying we were going to be married.

"We went to Cumberland. Janice rented a room at the Southern Hotel. She went to her room and allowed me to sit in the lobby, talking to the proprietor. We were arrested while trying to get a ring. I wanted to put it off, but she insisted on going through with it."

WABASH TUBE URGED AS ROAD

ance of passenger service are involved, it was said.

The west end of the tunnel is within 1,000 feet of the Saw Mill Run boulevard and would connect with it with little change of grade, engineers said.

By unanimous vote the commissioners referred the proposal to the county public works department for investigation and report.

The Wabash tunnel is 3,400 feet long and 27 wide in the clear. This would allow two-way traffic with considerable to spare. The bridge is 34 feet wide. Approach to the bridge at the Pittsburgh end would be by way of a ramp leading from Fourth avenue, the discussion of the project indicated. The tunnel is ventilated by a shaft.

ERECTED IN 1905

The tunnel and bridge were erected in 1905 at a cost of approximately $4,000,000, according to the best available information.

The railroad has pending before the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission a request for discontinuance of passenger service, which is now carried on at a loss, the railroad contends.

Establishing of a freight terminal in West Liberty would allow the railroad entrance to steel mills and to give service equal to that which is now maintained, it is asserted. Several hearings have been held on the passenger discontinuance proposal, but no decision has been rendered.

SENATE BLOC MAY FORCE SESSION

Leaders Get Ultimatum To Spur Action on Shoals And Norris Amendment

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Insurgent bloc of the Senate, always disturbing to conservative Republican administrations, today laid a legislative program before President Hoover's congressional leaders with a demand for its enactment within the next two months.

The Insurgents virtually backed their legislative demand with a gentle hint that otherwise a special session of the new Congress would be necessary. The program included enactment of additional farm relief, Power regulation, Muscle Shoals, Railroad consolidation and anti-injunction legislation, and the Norris "lame duck" constitutional amendment.

UPSETS PROGRAM

The Insurgent proposal was made at the very time administration leaders were hopefully planning a course to avoid a special session. Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader of the Senate and spokesman for the President, has led the group opposing a special session. He declared the consensus of opinion in Congress itself, as well as in the business world, was against a special session.

The administration's attitude angered Senator William E. Borah (Rep.), of Idaho. He said:

"This talk about Congress disturbing business, or that a session of Congress would be an unmixed evil, is an effort to assign a patriotic excuse for going home or going to Europe. It is a strange thing to me to have men fighting to get into Congress and telling the people all the things they want to do, and then making every possible excuse to go home and do nothing.

BUSINESS PLEA

Borah said two of the nation's most prominent business men had interviewed him recently, urging enactment of special legislation even if it were necessary to call a special session. He said much necessary legislation would be postponed for another two years unless a special session is called in early spring.

DRY FIGHT NEAR IN CONGRESS

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Wickersham Commission, which for 18 months has been wrestling with the wildcat of prohibition, resumed its sessions today amid a flurry of rumors that it will submit a report to President Hoover within a week.

Republican leaders at the capitol have been informed that the report will be in their hands by the middle of January, but a number of them prefer to doubt this. However, it did not appear possible today for the session to end without a sanguinary battle over prohibition.

Meanwhile, both wets and drys on Capitol Hill were greatly agitated over the statement printed in the Christian Herald by Stanley High, its editor, that no less than 40 drys in the House are only awaiting a favorable opportunity to bolt the dry ranks and join the opponents of prohibition.

Prayed for Him, Worked, Too, Ed Tells Pinchot

Ed Whiten, messenger, bustled past and as he caught the eye of the Governor-elect his face became wreathed in smiles. Ed grinned:

"Ah sure am glad to see you back, Guv'ner. Do you know ah prayed you'd come back. Ah prayed hard."

Mr. Pinchot replied:

"That's fine, Ed. What is that quotation that fits this occasion? Isn't it something about the prayer of a righteous man availing much?"

Ed explained:

"Yes, Sam, but 'ah didn't jes pray. 'Ah worked."

The smiles of the group about the governor-elect broke into laughter and Ed. hurried off to deliver an important-looking document.

Parties Essential in Rule By People, Coolidge Says

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 30.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

We cannot weaken or destroy political parties in the United States without weakening or destroying the rule of the people. The party system has been adopted because of necessity. It has been the most efficient instrument of maintaining free popular government. No other method is effective in putting into operation the theory of representation.

Calvin Coolidge

Under absolute monarchy the only way to change the government was by revolution. Gradually parties became a substitute for revolution. They provided an orderly and legal way for the people to express and enforce their will.

Some concerted effort is necessary to conduct a popular election. We require party platforms, expressed or implied. They are the party constitutions. The alternative would be the election of persons without any pledge and free to do what they wished. That would be destructive of representative responsibility and repugnant to a sovereign people.

Without platform pledges and parties to execute them, elections might determine who holds office but the people would have almost no voice in the government. Those who support party organization and submit to party discipline are adopting the only course yet discovered for orderly government by the people.

SHOW BOAT RUM CASE DROPPED

A liquor charge pending before the United States commissioner against three former proprietors of the Show Boat, was dropped today by Federal Prosecutor Louis E. Graham, for lack of evidence.

Those cleared are Lou Markowitz, Milton Jaffe and Frank T. Graham, all arrested following a raid on the boat by prohibition agents last May. They were charged with possessing and selling two pints of whisky at $7 each to a federal agent.

Don Collins pleaded guilty December 8, to sale of the same two pints. He was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $200. The boat, subsequent to the raid, was taken over by new owners.

at the little kitchen door and scratched nervously. He whined a lot. Mrs. Vogick thought him ill. He couldn't lie down—strange symptoms. But stranger was that he wasn't with John Vogick, 14, her son.

DOG LEADS WAY

There was an hour of this, until the father came home. His wife told him something was wrong. He followed the dog, and the path they pursued wound about the hills—to the entrance of an abandoned mine. Somehow the dog told the man that they should go into the two-foot hole into the hillside, and they did.

Vogick had been a miner. There was gas in the mine—sulphur like. Man and dog walked, seemingly miles. In reality, only three-fourths of a mile. The last thousand feet the gas forced the man to falter—to cover his mouth and nostrils with his hand and to bend low. But they went on.

The dog barked. The millhand stumbled and fell over a body. It was a neighbor boy's. A second. His Johnny was the third.

Vogick tried to pick up three. They were too much and something told him he couldn't take Johnny and leave the others. He staggered back for help.

GAS FORCES HALT

Twice more, man and dog returned. Twice they were forced back—but the third time help came.

Not three, but five youthful forms were carried to the surface—back through that two-foot hole.

The Vogick family didn't know Johnny had gone. He went with the other boys. Their fathers were working only a few days a week, they had been picking coal.

Rover knew. He had gone along.

Today, over and over again in that spare little kitchen, Papa Vogick is asking Rover?

"Where's Johnny?"

SCIENCE HEADS OPEN CONCLAVE

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Presentation of papers on the outstanding scientific experiments of the year began here today as regular sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science got under way following the inauguration of the eighty-seventh annual convention with an address by retiring President Robert A. Millikan, of the California Institute of Technology, last night.

Using for his subject, "Atomic Disintegration and Atomic Synthesis," Dr. Millikan outlined the present status of his theory and study of the cosmic ray to more than 5,000 delegates to the convention and laymen guests at the opening general session of the conclave.

The address, as is the custom of the association, was Dr. Millikan's farewell as president of the body. He was introduced by Dr. Thomas H. Morgan, also the California Institute at Pasadena, who is the incoming president.

Father Finds Son Among Five Boys Killed by Gas in Old Mine

GAS POISONING

Following a tour of inspection into the workings, Coroner W. J. McGregor and J. J. Forbes, of the United States Bureau of Mines, said that the boys had died of carbon monoxied poisoning. Dr. McGregor said:

"There is evidently a fire somewhere in the workings, but it was impossible to locate it. We attribute the carbon monoxide to this smoldering fire.

"At times, dependent upon the air current, this condition becomes very dangerous, while at other times, it might be perfectly safe to enter the place."

Dr. McGregor and the experts said they found no trace of black damp, and declared that there is still a lot of good coal in the place, which is in good condition.

Dr. McGregor will recommend that the openings to the mine be blocked up, he said.

RESIDENTS GIVE ALARM

The alarm was given firemen and police by residents near the mine, after Thomas Vogick, 62, made his second fruitless trip to the mine mouth, narrowed to two feet by a recent slide. Four patrols, three fire companies, many pedestrians and residents reached the scene. Inspector Dennis Hennessey and Lieut. Edward Fallon guarded the entrance, holding back the throng.

Mrs. Anna Kasicky, mother of one of the boys, led a group of parents who heard of the tragedy. When the bodies had been removed, she watched a futile attempt to revive her boy.

MOTHER TELLS OF DREAM

Mrs. Mary Kubala began to sob

"I dreamed a month ago this would happen. I warned Walter not to pick coal."

The snowfall began to grow heavier and whiten the ground.

Three youths stood in the throng, gasping for air. They were Elmer Reiland, of Willock road; Earl Gibbs, of Cloverleaf street, Brentwood, and Michael Malanak, 3215 Mary street. They had helped bring the boys out.

Coroner McGregor declared he would have the entrance boarded up, and said he would ask owners of all abandoned mines in the Pittsburgh district to seal all entrances so that there cannot be a recurrence of yesterday's fatalities.

Hoover Aide's Death Quiz Waits Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—The board of inquiry appointed to determine the cause of the sudden death yesterday of Lieut. Although naval officials first reported the body was devoid of any marks of violence they admitted later it was severely bruised as if it had fallen.

Ambassador Dawes Pays Visit to Joffre

PARIS, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who visited Marshal Joffre today and was admitted to the bedside, found his old war-time friend "fighting courageously," he said. He expressed warm admiration for the old warrior's battle against death.

Mr. Dawes came from his post in London with his family to attend the formal taking over today of the American site at the French Colonial Exposition.

Wales, Stiff After Riding At Hunt, Dodges Party

KING'S LYNN, England, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Stiffness and soreness arising from his strenuous day on horseback Saturday were supposed today to account for unexplained absence last night of the Prince of Wales from the annual ball of the West Norfolk Hunt, which he promised to attend.

More than 300 guests awaited arrival of the Prince, but at the last moment learned with disappointment that he was unable to be present, although no reason was assigned. His brother, the Duke of Gloucester, motored from Sandringham to take his place.

The Prince resumed hunting last week after a long abstention, and seems not yet to have overcome the tendency to muscle soreness.

It was assumed that he felt too stiff last night to enjoy the dance and preferred an easy chair.

World Felicitates Kipling On 65th Birthday

BURWASH, Sussex, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Messages of greeting and congratulation poured in today from all over the world to the beautiful Tudor house where Rudyard Kipling makes his home, the occasion being the famous author's sixty-fifth birthday.

There were few callers, however, for Kipling's love of retirement is as intense on his birthday as on all other days of the year and no recognition of the event so far as the outside world is concerned was expected from the creator of "Kim" and others of a long list of notable characters.

Caraway Says Hyde Used Frank on Yule Cards

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Severe criticism of Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde for sending out several thousand personal Christmas cards under his franking privilege as a cabinet officer was voiced today by Senator Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas.

Under the law, Caraway said, the franking of free postage privilege is limited to official business.

Caraway said he had been informed that postal inspectors discovered Hyde was "abusing the privilege" and compelled him to pay several hundred dollars in accumulated postage.

He cited the incident in an attack on Hyde's farm relief attitude. Caraway said:

"I have heard that Secretary Hyde was caught sending out Christmas cards under his official frank. I understand postal inspectors made him pay a lot of postage. Now it would be interesting to learn from Mr. Hyde whether he was caught abusing his frankiny privilege, whether his Christmas cards were printed in the bureau of printing at government expense and whether government clerks, while on government pay, were used in addressing his cards."

CALM NIGHT PASSED BY WARHERO

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT.
International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 30—Shortly before noon today, the maximum period of life predicted for Marshal Joseph Joffre by at least one of his attending physicians, the 78-year-old soldier was still alive.

Prefect of Paris Police Jean Chiappe, in leaving the hospital after a courtesy call, said:

"I saw Mme. Joffre and she is most optimistic just now. She said to me: 'The marshal is most lucid at present. He talked lengthily to me. I am hoping and praying.'"

Amazing all France by a sheer tenacity of will that kept the last spark of life fluttering through the night, the marshal rallied sufficiently at the break of dawn to take a sip of mineral water and milk.

At 8:10 a. m. (3:10 a. m., eastern standard time), a joint bulletin was issued by his chief physicians as follows:

"After a calm night, the marshal was lucid and able to take nourishment and pronounce a few words. But his lungs are beginning to fail and the breathing is irregular. The situation is still serious."

TAKES NOURISHMENT

At 6:05 a. m., Dr. Fontaine, who watched at the bedside of the marshal through the night, said in leaving the clinic of Des Freres de Saint Jean de Dieu:

"Marshal Joffre has just taken some mineral water and milk. He may live until noon (7 a. m., eastern standard time)."

An alternate state of comma and normal sleep late yesterday and through the night relieved "Papa" Joffre of pain, enhanced considerably by a gangrenous infection that followed an attack of arteritis and amputation of a leg a week ago.

At midnight Dr. Leriche and Dr. Boulin, his two chief physicians, consented to leave the hospital after long hours without rest. They returned to the hospital this morning.

RALLIES ONCE MORE

Several times the medical authorities became convinced that the end had come. After regaining consciousness late yesterday, following a state of coma that lasted five hours, a physician asked him if he felt better. He whispered quickly:

"Yes."

He drank half a glass of water and seemed to regain a ruddier complexion. Previously deadly pallor had spread over his cheeks.

One of the 78-year-old soldier's sustaining physical factors was his strong heart, which continued to beat stoically through the doubtful hours.

All of France followed news from the Marshal's bedside closely. Hundreds of persons again approached the hospital doors to inquire about Joffre's condition, but very few were allowed in the sick chamber.

The operation was performed last Saturday. Friday, at his own request, Marshal Joffre received the last sacrament from Abbe Bellesoeur, almoner of the clinic.

Joffre Calmly Watched Amputation of Leg

PARIS, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Marshall Joffre's leg was cut off while he looked calmly on, refusing to take ether and allowing use of only a local anaesthetic. He told his doctors, it was revealed today, that he wished to see what they were going to do to him.

His illnes developed last July, when Dr. Boulin was called. Joffre told the physician:

"My left foot hurts me, doctor."

Boulin considered that the case needed the attention of an expert so he called Dr. Leriche, of Strasbourg.

They diagnosed the illness as arteritis, which eventually took the aspect of a gangrenous leg infection, but they did not consider it serious until November when it was realized that an amputation would soon be necessary.

In mid-December the marshal grew worse and on December 19 was rushed in his own cabriolet to the hospital of St. Jean de Dieu. Five doctors examined him there, and the amputation was set for December 20, but he grew so much worse immediately that it was resorted to that night.

COUNCIL ENDS CITY BUDGET HEARINGS

City Council Finance Committee today disposed of several large financial items as it closed the budget hearings. Council as a whole meets Friday to act on the budget appropriations, totaling about $28,500,000.

A motion was passed for setting aside $100,000 as an emergency fund to be used in the unemployment situation, and $25,000 for immediate relief of unemployment. The larger fund may be used in any manner needed.

A motion for a bond issue of $235,000 for improvements also was passed. This will require legislative action before it becomes effective. The expenditure of this issue would be divided thus:

Duquesne way ramp, $70,000; widen Seventh avenue, William Penn place to Grant street, $70,000; damages in Voskamp and Sullivan streets, $100,000; Forward avenue, $10,000; physician's home at Leech Farm, $15,000; garage for Bureau of Highways and Sewers, $30,000; shade tree storage garage, $5,000; Brilliant pumping station engineering, $25,000.

The entire budget includes salary raises aggregating $30,000 to $40,000, according to W. Y. English, chairman of the finance committee. There are approximately 140 increases and 25 salary cuts. There are 101 jobs added to the payroll.

DOUBLE MURDER CLUE VANISHES

BLACKWELL, Okla., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Another lead vanished today in the search for the slayer of Jessie and Zexia Griffith, school teacher sisters of Blackwell, but Kay County officers still had a trail to follow.

Mrs. J. P. Griffith, mother of the young women who were shot to death and thrown from their motor car on a cross-state highway near Tonkawa, Okla., Sunday, failed to identify three women's handkerchiefs left at an Oklahoma City Salvation Army home by a man who said he was W. T. Capehart, of Cleveland, Okla.

Officers had thought the handkerchiefs belonged to the school teachers.

Meanwhile Bruce Potter, Kay County attorney, disclosed the nature of new evidence, which he said yesterday would convict the slayer if he is located.

Durkin, Murderer, Applies for Pardon

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Martin J. Durkin, described by police as Chicago's most spectacular murderer, today had on file an application for commutation of his 35-year penitentiary sentence. Durkin was sent to prison in July, 1926, for the murder of Edward C. Shanahan, a Federal agent. It was reported that the contest for Durkin's freedom was started by one of his former wives—either Irma Sullivan, who divorced him, or Betty Wener, who was remarried.

The young wife, whose mother, Mrs. Florence C. Morton, joined in her divorce action, says she was compelled to leave her husband because of his treatment of her.

FIRE DAMAGES STEEL OFFICES

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 30.—The office building of the Lemoyne Steel Company at New Eagle was damaged when fire originated on the second floor of the two-story brick structure last night. The fire caused $5,000 damage, according to Chief of Police J. O. Horner, of New Eagle. The blaze originated, it is believed, in the chemist's quarters on the second floor, damaging chemicals and laboratory equipment.

The steel mill is located near the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the blaze caused a 15-minute delay of the Pittsburgh-Morgantown flyer.

Forty of the prisoners were killed or wounded, they said. About 60 were in the group which came here. They had been sentenced to Siberia, they said, for resisting collectivization measures.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The natural gas industry in 1931 will complete the most important development and expansion program in its history, and more than 4,000 miles of pipe lines now under construction will be put into operation next year.

This brief summary of the favorable outlook for the natural gas business was made today by E. O. Diefenbach, president of G. E. Barrett and Company, and director of United Gas Company, American Commonwealth's Power Corporation, American Utilities Corporation, and other enterprises connected with the transportation of natural gas from the southwestern sections of the country to the centers of population and manufacturing in the Middle West.

EXPANSION

Mr. Diefenbach estimates gas lines under construction, with a capacity of upward of 500,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a day, will supply a number of the principal industrial markets of the country.

He declared:

"The coming year will be marked by the probable interconnection of the eastern and western gas-producing areas, and further stabilization of the industry which in the past few years has to a large extent been brought under the control of leading public utility companies.

"Hardly another American industry can point to a period of growth comparing with that of the natural gas industry for the 10 years just ended, when natural gas emerged from a localized status to its present super-gas position. Ranking alongside the electric and manufactured gas public utilities. Consumption of natural gas in this country during 1930 is estimated to have approached the 2,000,000,000,000 (trillion) cubic feet mark, compared with less than 10 per cent of that volume in 1920. Today, there are more than 5,250,000 natural gas consumers compared with half that number 10 years back.

TWO BILLION INVESTMENT

"The investment in natural gas enterprises now totals approximately $2,250,000,000, compared with less than half that amount 10 years ago. Based on projects in progress, the present investment total will be further increased during the ensuing year.

"The long term outlook of the industry continues promising. Smaller producing and distributing organizations are still to be absorbed by major companies to round out their systems, thereby safeguarding the demands of both domestic and industrial consumers and assuring them of benefits from greater economies in operation. Furthermore, branches from existing main pipe lines may be expected gradually to make available this fuel to numerous smaller communities now waiting to be served."

ELECTRIC OUTLOOK GOOD

Clarence L. Collens, president of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association, believes that in 1931 the foundations will be laid for a period of general prosperity.

He said:

"In no previous business depression has there been so much sound thinking and so marked an absence of departure from normal market levels in an effort to increase sales. The resultant stability has been exceptional and gratifying and presages a similar conservative and understanding treatment of future conditions, which will be of inestimable benefit to industry.

"Modernization of every character—machines, methods, markets and men will be under way in a short time, not only in the producing, but also in the engineering, research and selling divisions of business."

The application of electricity, he pointed out, will occupy a significant part in any such program, declaring that the electrical manufacturer will profit if he exploits intelligently his resources of product, experience and knowledge.

Mr. Collens concluded:

"Stability in prices does not mean that prices remain at constant levels, since basic conditions and fundamental changes in cost will always be reflected in them. Stability does mean that under any given condition of supply, demand and cost, variation in price is minimized and the speculative feature of purchase reduced. As a rule, buyers prefer that the element of speculation be removed from the products which they purchase. They are satisfied when they know that they are buying as low as anyone else under similar conditions, and that prices will not materially vary in the near future."

Daughter of Hill, Rail Man, to Wed

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The engagement of Mrs. Ruth Hill Beard, widow of Anson McCook Beard, to Pierre Lorillard, son of the founder of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., was announced last night.

Mrs. Beard is a daughter of the late James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad. Her husband died in 1929. Mr. Lorillard is a prominent clubman and a resident of Tuxedo Park. His wife, the former Miss Caroline Jaffray Hamilton, died in 1909. The wedding has been set for February.

New Plant Opened By Weirton Steel

WEIRTON, W. Va., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The new $3,000,000 structural steel mill of the Weirton Steel Corporation operated yesterday for the first time, employing 150 men in 10-hour shifts. The plant will add another 10-hour shift in three months, officials said. The men were chosen from among former employes who have been idle.

The new plant represents half of the corporation's $6,000,000 expansion program.

Gives Blood to Save Boy His Son Shot

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—A 13-year-old boy lies in a Baltimore hospital critically injured, his shoulder torn away by the accidental discharge of a shotgun in the hands of his 14-year-old cousin. An uncle, father of the boy who held the gun, gave a pint of blood to save the wounded lad and doctors said a second transfusion might be necessary.

The injured youth was Donald Monaghan and his cousin is George Millineaux. The latter's father, Clarence, gave the blood.

Water Too Cold, Balks at Suicide

VENICE, Cal., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The chilly waters of the Pacific lapping the beach here probably have saved a man from suicide—to turn him over to federal authorities for punishment for a postal robbery. Archibald McCoig stopped a policeman and said:

"I'm a fugitive from Chicago. I stole $200 from a friend who operates a branch postoffice in a drug store in Chicago. My conscience hurts. I decided to jump into the ocean, but the water's too cold, so take me in charge."

The policeman did.

La Farge to Retire, To Paint as Pastime

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Oliver H. P. La Farge is retiring from Wall street to devote himself to painting as a pastime. His father, the late John La Farge, noted artist, forbade his son to be an artist, and he was successively, in 41 years, an architect, a gold prospector in Alaska, and banker. In his first exhibition are shown landscapes painted during the last 30 years for recreation.

Bandits Raid Train In China, Kill 80

PEIPING, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—The worst bandit outrage in the history of the Peiping-Mukden Railway, resulting in the deaths of 80 persons and injury to 30, was reported in Chinese News Agency dispatches today.

According to the report, the bandit gang derailed a passenger train near Chinchow. A tank car containing gasoline exploded, setting fire to the train. Most of the victims were burned to death when trapped in the wooden passenger coaches. There were no foreigners aboard.

Headache to Win Man Job, But It Must Be Bad

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The University of Illinois Medical College is shopping for the services of man with a headache.

And when he is found he can step right into a job with a salary and three months' free lodging. The only condition is that he must have a case of genuine migraine.

Migraine, it was explained, is a sort of sick or nervous headache which afflicts the patient with severe periodical attacks on one side of the head. This notice was issued:

"Wanted—Male patient with genuine migraine, for investigation. Will require three months' free residence at the hospital with $50 per month allowance. Prefer patient out of work. Call Mrs. Milliken, hospital laboratory, Research and Educational Hospital."

LORD MELCHETT RITES HELD

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—In the presence of scores of industrial and political leaders, Lord Melchett, losing one of the most powerful figures in England, was buried today at St. Pancras Cemetery.

He was laid to rest after funeral services with the full Jewish rites. At the grave were many officials of the Imperial Chemical Industries which Lord Melchett headed and of other industrial and financial institutions with which he was associated.

The ambassador of Poland, France, Austria and Greece were there, as was the Maharajah of Burdwan, one of the Indian princes attending the round table conference. Lord Dawson of Penn, the royal physician, also was there.

LEGION FIGHTS FOR AIRPORT

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 30.—This city is much interested in a suit filed yesterday by the Milton L. Bishop post of the American Legion against C. A. and Harriet J. Moon, to recover possession of a 48-acre flying field here.

Since the property was reclaimed and fenced off by the Moons, there has been no landing surface available here.

The Legion post spent considerable money in conditioning the field, but when it was late in paying the taxes, the Moons settled with the tax collector and posted trespass notice. They have refused to accept the checks of the Legion for the sum paid in taxes.

While the field was under Legion supervision, many planes visited here. Much of the money needed to build the field was raised by subscriptions from business houses.

SHEPARD ASKS NEW TRIAL

TOPEKA, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment were filed today in behalf of Maj. Charles A. Shepard, Army Medical Corp officer convicted of the poison murder of his second wife at Fort Riley, Kan., in June, 1929.

Court attaches said the motions would be heard by Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins February 2, the date for passing of sentence. The trial jury assessed life imprisonment in returning its verdict at Kansas City, Kan., December 22.

Maj. Shepard is at liberty under $20,000 bond and meantime has resumed his duties at Fitzsimons General Army Hospital at Denver.

$90,000 ASKED IN FATAL CRASH

Suits totaling $90,000 are on file in Common Pleas Court today against the Pittsburgh Railways Company, instituted by Frank Walters for the deaths of his wife, Mary M. Walters, and his son, Paul, and the injury of another son, Leo, in a traffic crash in Second street, Heidelberg, December 5.

A street car is alleged to have collided with the automobile of Anna Burns, in which Mrs. Walters and her son were riding.

Hopeful 20 Years, Inherits $631,480

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Cheer up, William A. Rowley's friends used to tell him as he pored over figures representing other folks' money as a clerk at the city hall. They told him prosperity was "just around the corner." He always answered:

"Oh, well, anything can happen."

But he labored more than 20 years before retiring, and nothing much happened until yesterday, when word was received that an aunt had left him property worth $631,480.

Returns for Visit, Sentenced to Jail

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Police pushed their investigation today into the mysterious death of Frederick D. Saunders, 38, wealthy cigar company official, who was found shot to death yesterday in his palatial Drexel Hill home. Though it appeared he had died by his own hand, no powder burns were found about the fatal wound. Coroner J. Evan Scheedle ordered an inquest.

BRANDS CO-EDS IGNORANT

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Instances of "amazing ignorance" among freshmen at Smith College were cited to a student health conference by two members of the Smith faculty. Many young women at the school Dr. Frances Scott and Dr. Anna Richardson said, believed:

That raisins are a better source of iron than eggs.

That the potato is the most fattening of foods.

That fat is more likely to result from drinking water with meals than from eating potatoes.

That the toe-out method of walking is best.

That Turkish baths are the best method of exercise.

The samples were called typical of popular misconceptions and superstitions among young college women about exercise, food, ventilation, infant welfare, mental hygiene and preventable diseases. The conference was attended by student health supervisors of 150 colleges.

MT. LEBANON URGES CANAL

Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioners have written to City Council and to officials of boroughs and townships in Allegheny County suggesting that all suburbs take united action with the city in favoring the construction of the Ohio River and Lake Erie ship canal.

The night's program will open with a stag banquet in the William Penn Hotel, followed by a party at the Show Boat for members and women guests. City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley will represent Mayor Charles H. Kline at the first evening event, which includes among speakers, Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, Judge William Newcomb, of Plainfield, N. J., and Charles H. Joseph.

Librarian Urges Sex Book Taboo Be Lifted

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Books on sex should be made available to college students in the belief of Miss Mary K. Reely, of Madison, Wis., member of the state's Free Library Commission.

Speaking before the mid-winter meeting of the American Library Association, Miss Reely declared that there were two things in which college students were interested: Themselves and the world in which they live.

"Therefore," she argued, "they should have books which inform them on these subjects."

Burglars Cause Gas To Fill Postoffice

VANCOUVER, Wash., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Postoffice employes went to work with tears in their eyes after burglars had tried to open the vault, disregarding a sign that tear gas would be liberated if the lock were tampered with.

The building was filled with gas fumes. Nothing of value was taken.

CHECK PASSER SENTENCED

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Lawrence C. Bingham, also known as L. Gerald Beverly, 30, for whom warrants were waiting from Pittsburgh and Los Angeles, was sentenced to serve six months in the workhouse for passing a bad $200 check on a hotel.

Lawrence C. Bingham is wanted in Pittsburgh on four bad-check charges growing out of his stay here last year.

Extradition papers have been prepared by the district attorney's office to bring him back to face charges brought by the Fort Pitt Hotel for $65, Hotel William Penn for $109.50, a downtown department store for $175, and a downtown garage for $75.

According to Edward Ferris, credit manager at the Fort Pitt Hotel, Bingham is internationally known and at times has assumed titles. He once was the London correspondent of a Chicago paper.

PITTSBURGHERS INSPECT CARS

A pageant will proceed the installation; equipment from the early horse-car period to the present day will be featured.

THINGS WORTH SAVING FOR

Will This be Your Daughter In 1940?

It can be . . . If you save to develop her talent

Your little girl—how you love to hear her humming to herself. Or imitating—and closely, too—the great voices she hears on the radio. She just has to sing! . . . Some night, perhaps just a few years from now, thousands may be listening to her voice—a trained voice broadcast from countless radios.

It isn't hard to do—this saving to train the young musician in your home. There's real joy in putting away a little money, week after week, in a savings account . . . and watching it grow, toward the day when the training will begin to bear fruit.

You can start your account at the Farmers Deposit Bank with any small sum. And it will draw interest at 4 per cent, credited to your account every six months. Come ask us about it and start Saving TODAY.

LEWIS HAS GOOD WORD FOR U. S.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Sinclair Lewis had a good word to say for America last night.

In the course of a radio talk the author of "Main Street" told his German listeners that the reason he liked Berlin so much and the reason he came here after receiving the Nobel prize in Stockholm, was that Berlin was "so American." He said:

"I love Berlin, because it is so absolutely foreign and yet so absolutely American. Whatever vice America has it has also a great friendliness and I find that friendliness here. The strangeness of a foreign land and the friendliness of America—that is Berlin's charm to me."

WORK REMAINS ON BUDGET

The finance committee of Council may be unable to complete its work on the budget sessions today. There is still a mass of appropriations to be studied.

No meeting of the committee was held yesterday because of lack of a quorum.

There is still a possibility that if the committee completes its work tomorrow, Council may hold a special meeting late in the week and close the budget. The committee has been working on the budget more than two weeks.

Greetings to Survivors

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

They were coming too close.

Nearly two hundred ex-citizens said, "Here's looking at you."

They finished the drink but not the scrutiny.

They fiddle with that elixir of sudden autopsies in spite of the daily warning in every newspaper in the country.

You can't live and learn nowadays. You've got to take your choice of either one.

It's about time to stop wondering whether the stuff is good or bad and start wondering if your wife will look good in black.

They could improve this nation by taking those safety gates off dangerous crossings and putting them on neighborhood hospitality.

Communistic edict aimed at home cooking in historic Romonoff garages sounds like the government of the people has lost the last census.

It is autocracy carried out to the seventh decimal point. It means you've got to pick your daily diet off the bulletins issued by the Soviet Weather Bureau.

But that's nothing compared with the 1930 conditions in Turkey, which will not change a bit with the 1931 license plates.

So the befezzed Turk has been unfezzed.

They've eliminated the fezzing department, and the well-dressed citizen of the Ottoman empire can have his choice of a lash-o-shanter, Grover Whalen's high hat or a tomato basket.

What kind of a government is that? We know that the sprightly Chinaman discarded the queue because the Mongol raider hung it on the boys of Cathay as a mark of bondage.

The queue was the badge of servitude. So it has been vetoed. We are not familiar with the history of the fez or the inverted flower pot.

People are peculiar. Some natives like to wear rings in their ears and saxophones through their noses.

We may think that very odd. But Americans are the only barbarians who wear silver derbies on saxophones.

Josephus Daniels tried to stop the business of tattooing in the Navy. New Jersey still has a blue law that makes it illegal to put both your feet in one shoe.

And Connecticut is offering a bonus for the extermination of the lightning-bug because that obstinate insect has its headlights in the rear.

Guess when you figure it out we are all a little dizzy. Anyway, we have about reached the end of this year and we are going to turn over enough leaves to stuff a sofa pillow.

There will be a carillon of the wild bells at midnight tomorrow night, after which another exhausted year will be added to history.

We're glad it's gone. All we saved out of it is a couple of non-negotiable freckles from the hot sun of July.

AUTO SHOW $300 CASH PRIZES CONTEST 200 SHOW Tickets

(The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, co-operating with the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, is donating these prizes for the best answers and slogans.)

Here is the Sun-Telegraph Automobile Puzzle Contest, based on passenger cars to be exhibited in the forthcoming annual Automobile Show to be held at Motor Square Garden, January 17 to 24, inclusive.

One or two puzzle pictures, in each of which will be concealed the name of an automobile and in each of which are hidden several words, will be published every day in the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

Readers of the Sun-Telegraph are invited to find the names of the automobiles and to name the hidden words in each puzzle and send them to the Auto Show Contest Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, 612 Grant street, together with a good slogan, descriptive of the Automobile Show. YOU MUST SEND ALL YOUR ANSWERS AT THE SAME TIME IN ONE ENVELOPE AT THE COMPLETION OF THE CONTEST. ACCURACY, NEATNESS AND CLEVERNESS OF SLOGAN WILL BE CONSIDERED IN AWARDING THE PRIZES.

Prizes totaling $300 in gold and 200 show tickets are to be awarded the winners in the contest. Be sure to put your name and address with the slogan at the top of the first page. Your name should appear on each page you send in.

The final pictures will be published January 15. All answers must be in the hands of the Auto Show Contest Editor no later than noon, Friday, January 16. The winners will be announced at the Automobile Show, Monday evening, January 19, and in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph January 20.

At various times during the contest, the names of passenger cars to be exhibited at the show will be printed. From this list contestants are to pick the names of the cars.

CONTESTANTS ARE NOT TO SEND IN ANSWERS UNTIL THE FINAL PUZZLE PICTURES HAVE BEEN PRINTED. THEN SEND THEM IN ALL TOGETHER AT THE SAME TIME. WRITE THE NAMES OF THE CARS ON SEPARATE SHEETS OF PAPER WITH THE HIDDEN WORDS OF EACH PICTURE IN THE ORDER IN WHICH THE PICTURES APPEARED.

Your slogan must accompany the answers. It may be either rhyme or prose and should be applicable to the Automobile Show. It must be short, snappy and clever. Remember, it is an important factor in deciding the winners.

Any person is eligible to enter this contest except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph or members of their families.

LIST OF PRIZES

For the best list of correct auto names, discovered mistakes, and the cleverest slogan, the following prizes will be awarded:

FIRST PRIZE—$100 in gold.
SECOND PRIZE—$50 in gold.
THIRD PRIZE—$25 in gold.
FIVE PRIZES of $10 each, $50 in gold.
Fifteen prizes of $5 each, $75 in gold.
And 100 prizes of two tickets each, good any afternoon at the Auto Show.
In case of ties, equal prizes will be awarded tying contestants.

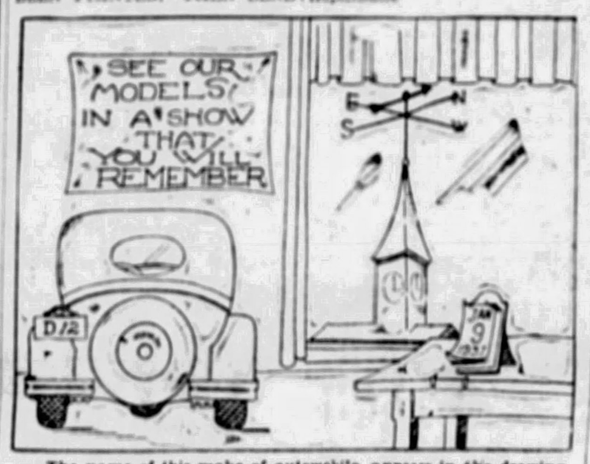
Auburn	LaSalle
Austin	Lincoln
Buick	Marmon
Cadillac	Nash
Chevrolet	Oakland
Chrysler	Oldsmobile
Cord	Packard
DeSoto	Pierce-Arrow
Dodge	Plymouth
Duesenberg	Pontiac
Essex	Reo
Ford	Rolls-Royce
Franklin	Studebaker
Graham	Willys-Knight
Hudson	Willys
Hupmobile



The name of this make of automobile appears in the drawing. Read the sign and you will find the name concealed there—its letters in their proper order.

Having found the name, find some words that begin and end with the same letter as the name of the car. The artist has shown three such words. Find them all.

STATE TO PUSH AUTO TAG LAW

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles at Harrisburg today began a campaign for strict enforcement of the laws covering proper display, legibility and defacing of automobile license plates. C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, has asked members of the club to co-operate with the state authorities.

Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, has sent bulletins to all police departments in the state, requesting that the officers strictly enforce all provisions of the license plate regulations. The bulletin asks police to be especially vigilant in enforcing the law requiring two headlights and a tail lamp.

GIRL'S CHARGE HOLDS 2 MEN

Chester Percilla, 21, of Carrick, and Joseph Yayo, 25, of 308 Copperfield avenue, were held for court today by Magistrate T. D. Jones in Morals Court on a charge of felonious assault and battery on complaint of Vera Donnelly, 16, of 102 Westwood street.

The girl said the pair had asked her into their automobile in Arlington avenue last night and attempted to attack her. When she resisted, she testified, they beat her on the face and threw her from the machine in Bon Air avenue.

Miss Browne Honored at Luncheon

Adding to the gaiety of the holiday season, crammed full of entertainments for everybody, are many events from delightfully informal luncheons to very large balls and dinners.

Today Mrs. William Marrelein Smith, of Elkhorn, Sewickley, is entertaining at her home with a luncheon in honor of Hester Harlan Browne, debutante daughter of the Richard Holliday Steeples, of Sewickley and Louisville, Ky. Covers are laid for 16 with spring flowers used in decorating.

Holiday engagements of interest include that of a Greensburg girl and a Pittsburgh son. Henry Eugene Marker, of Greensburg, announces the engagement of his daughter, Rachel Kathryn, to Maitland Alexander Wilson, son of the Joseph Charles Wilsons, of Neville street. Rachel is a graduate of Winchester, and attended the Pennsylvania College for Women and the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts, New York. Mr. Wilson is a graduate of the University of Virginia.

Ever so many society folks left their firesides this holiday season to attend the theaters last night or to see the Williams College Cap and Bell Players present most delightfully "The Blue and the Gray," "Bad Girl," at the Alvin, and the opening of "Made in Hollywood were enthusiastically received. Most of the younger set, however, was at the Cap and Bells play last night.

At the Nixon I noticed the William A. Duckhams, with Mrs. Duckham in black georgette and a knee-length wrap of black velvet and white fox. The Jack Russells were among the spectators, and Mrs. Bissell had chosen a dinner gown of gold tissue with brief sleeves banded with chinchilla fur. Her wrap was of tomato velvet and white fox.

Mrs. Carl Boyntraeger chose garnet red crepe for her gown, with a wrap of black velvet furred with white fox. Margaret Geddes was gowned in black velvet with a matching hat.

I believe I had a glimpse of Mrs. George Faber Downey in black tulle.

Ever so many members of the younger set, looking very youthful and smart, were at the Williams College

Dinner Dance

melodrama. And a dinner-dance preceded the event, and a dance followed.

Among those entertaining before the play were Mrs. Scott Alexander McKeown, who honored her daughter, Sarah Jane, and her guest, Mary Alice Sharp, of Steubenville, O., and the Kirtland Cutter Gardners, of Coraopolis Heights, honoring their daughter, Louise Gardner.

Among those noted at the dinner dance were Mrs. Frank B. Bell, Mrs. W. Eugene Gary, Mrs. Charles A. Fisher, Mrs. G. E. Curry, Mrs. R. E. Butler, George Dickson, Mrs. Charles Graham, Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Mrs. A. L. Humphreys, Mrs. J. H. Lockhart, Priscilla Hall, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. Andrew E. Sloan, and her daughter, Jane, who entertained the cast, and many others.

Colorful Costumes

Honoring Debutante

Edwina Pickeral, of Louisville, Ky., and Isabel Healy, of Pottstown, Pa., house guests of the Marshalls, were among the guests.

The walls and ceiling of the ballroom were hung with skyblue satin embroidered with silver stars, with a low border of black oilcloth around the lower half of the walls. Colored lights played upon the ceiling. A bank of palms screened the orchestra.

Mrs. Clinton Lowrie Childs, of Pulpit Rock, Sewickley Heights, gave a dinner dance last evening in the Pittsburgh Club in honor of her debutante daughter, Elizabeth. The bud wore a frock of white brocade, and her mother chose gold brocade. Mrs. James G. Pontefract, the deb's grandmother, wore black velvet. Holiday decorations were prominent.

Another dance was given last night by the Albert Burchfield Craigs, of Sewickley, in compliment to their two daughters, Henrietta and Mary Elizabeth Craig, which took place in the Dorian Club. The club was decked with Yuletide colors and greens. The guests included members of the school set.

Announcement has been made of a betrothal of interest, that of Flora Eicher, daughter of the C. Ward Eichers, of Greensburg, and George Francis Richards, son of Francis St. John Richards, of Cranford, N. J., which was made known Saturday at a tea given by Mrs. John Barclay, Jr., and Mrs. Joseph B. Fogg, Flora's sister.

Australia Imposes Ban on Immigrants

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Immigrants were virtually banned from entry into Australia today by action of the government in advising foreign nations, through their consul generals, that the country was not in a position to provide employment to aliens.

Exchange Telegraph dispatches from Canberra stated that while the Australian government merely advised immigrants to refrain from entering Australia until the economic situation improves, such "advice" was considered virtually a ban on aliens.

Fraternity Debates Drinking Question

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—An international fight on the phohibition question is before delegates of the Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity in convention here.

The constitution bans drinking of members in chapter houses. Canadian delegates numbering almost fifty launched a battle to repeal this clause, taking the view that since their country is "wet" they should be allowed to drink where they like.

POSTMASTERS TO FILL JOBS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—The Postoffice Department has changed its policy and given postmasters the right to fill thousands of vacancies in regular positions of clerk and carrier, Representative Kendall (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, said today. Kendall declared:

"The order puts it up to the postmasters. I am informed that 19 clerks were appointed in one day in Washington and 22 in Pittsburgh. Probably others have been appointed throughout the country.

"I believe that if all vacancies in the department were filled, 5,000 to 8,000 substitutes would be given regular employment."

Kendall said the order is a reversal of policy of the department. The department has not, he said, abandoned its curtailment of service in many cities in an economy move.

Movie Siren Cast In Romantic Role

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Dorothy Burgess, who came from the stage two years ago and became a movie siren, is assured of a happy New Year.

In her two years in pictures she has been cast as a heartless feminine "meanie," much to her distress. Today she was given a romantic lead opposite Lew Ayres in his first starring picture "The Iron Man."

N. Y. New Year Fetes To be Gay, Costly

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—As gay a New Year celebration as ever will mark the passing of 1930 in New York, hotel men said today. They reported more reservations than last year, although in some instances prices for tables are lower. The charge per person averages from $7.50 to $15.

EXPOSED FOREHEADS SEEN IN NEW MILLINERY MODE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—Shallow days these are so far as our hats are concerned. Foreheads are to the fore as never before and the woman who has been rigorous in her efforts to eradicate any sign of the dreaded "frown lines" is today reaping the harvest for her vigilance. The pert little caps of shallow crown with just a whisper of a brim are extremely gay and youthful and so the woman who has doubts about the wisdom of buying such a model should leave all thoughts of these hats behind her and concentrate on the many other appropriate chapeax available just now. The vast variety of styles that are current just now certainly permit of every woman enhancing her own particular type and yet being very much of the mode. It has been many seasons since fashion permitted us this boon.

WE SHOW TODAY sketches of two fetching little hats very much in keeping with the scheme of things millinery. Both are designed to be worn with large and voluminous fur collars and both are pert and lovable. The first is by Camille Roger and it is of soft supple black felt with a rolled back brim folding over a single pheasant feather. The feather is partly hidden in the folded edge of the brim, and, at the top, passes through a slit. The crown is shallow and is worn right back on the head.

THE FIRM OF Marie-Christiane has had much success this year both with its private clientele and with the many stage luminaries for whom this house creates hats for their professional work. The model here depicted should serve to give one a good idea of the youthful charm of the creations. This firm is clever in evolving material mergers and for this model is used dark brown grosgrain ribbon and turquoise blue angora jersey. The grosgrain forms the right side of the hat and the cuff-like brim in back and also makes two pert little ends at the center of the crown in back.

MANCINI DIES IN ITALY

A cablegram announcing the death in Italy of Antonio Mancini, greatest of all contemporary Italian artists, was received at Carnegie Institute yesterday.

Mancini has exhibited in practically every Carnegie Institute International since 1900. At the recent International he had a group of three paintings. His painting, "Portraits in Red," was purchased for the permanent collection at the Institute in 1926. Moorhead Holland, of Pittsburgh, also owns one of his notable works.

He was born at Albano, near Rome, in 1852. He studied by himself until he was 20, when he went to Naples to study under Domenico Morelli. For many years he has been the important figure in all Italian exhibitions and the government recognized him with membership in the Royal Academy of Italy.

Women Golf Stars Find Thrill in 'Possum Hunt

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The thrill of treeing an agile Georgia 'possum compares favorable with that of teeing up at the start of an important links match, Glenna Collett and Maureen Orcutt said today.

The golf stars were members of a party of about a hundred persons recruited from the winter colony last night by Tom Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle, and Stewart Walker, chairman of the Augusta women's invitation golf tournament, to be played here March 16-19.

Miss Orcutt left the main group to go ahead with the dogs and guides while the others remained at a campfire until the baying of the dogs announced the treeing of a 'possum.

Miss Collett, when she caught up with the pack for the kill, inquired:

"Where has this sport been all our lives?"

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—It won't seem the same in Tin Pan Alley with Charles K. Harris gone. As the foremost ballad-maker of the land he had devoted more than 50 years to the writing of songs. A rich and eventful career was his.

His songs provide a vivid picture of sentimental America before the dawn of the jazz era. Hearing them once catches a glimpse of the republic before the high heels of sophistication set their stamp upon us. The radio occasionally brought them back, with Harris himself at times at the microphone. It was like thumbing old family albums, ransacking old trunks and desks.

Tin Pan Alley in its happy-go-lucky fashion called Harris' songs tear-jerkers. And tear-jerkers they were. They told stories, in the manner of old-time melodramas, of virtue triumphant, of children forsaken, of the call of home and mother. And they came as easy to Harris as rhythmic fox trots today come to Gershwin and Berlin. He turned them out by the scores and reaped a vast reward.

* * *

It was our pleasure occasionally to have luncheon with Harris. He was a mine of anecdote and reminiscence. He maintained a youthful spirit to the end. And a rich sense of humor kept him from taking himself or his work seriously. He confessed he could neither write nor play music. It was his custom to pick out his pieces, once a melody or lyric had come to him, on the black keys of the piano. An arranger would then put it down on paper. Harris would thereupon publish it and await the verdict of the public.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Streaks of the New Year sun are manifest on yonder horizon with numerous changes in programs. There are several switches from one network to the other while some sponsors have dropped off the air completely. Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit bid farewell to the Columbia circuit at 8 o'clock tonight to take up their song and patter through NBC and WCAE next week.

As perennial as "Rock of Ages," the Sacred Song concerts carry on with the indomitable spirit of their beautiful sponsor.

Lately she has had trying times the same as the rest of us, yet there is no obstacle big enough to handicap her in her work. In her downtown office she worked alone yesterday preparing the concert you will hear on KDKA at 7:30 tonight. Her secretary is ill.

Speaking of tough luck, be a Tiny Tim and imagine your blessings when you hear Allan Meaney, tenor, sing over WCAE at 7. Allan once owned a seat on the Wall Street Curb but he's warbling for a living now. He chooses for his first number, "It's a Great Life If You Don't Weaken." How's that for spirit?

Now if that chime clock doesn't strip a gear we'll hear an unique experiment over KDKA at 10 tonight when the orchestra and the clock play together Zoel Parenteau's "Chime Song."

QUESTION A DAY:

What is the name of Wayne King's theme song?—Ellen.

Answer—"The Waltz You Saved for Me."

OUR ALL-AMERICAN

Ted Kay riding home with us the other night remarked that we would be disgraced if we didn't pick an all-star orchestra team that could lick those selected so far.

How's this, Ted?

Our backfield, Don Bestor, captain and quarterback; Tom Gerun, fullback; Guy Lombardo and Ben Bernie at the halves. Show us a musical backfield to beat it in rhythm or melody. We have originality (Bestor), sweet tone (Lombardo), wise cracks (Bernie), and arrangements (Gerun).

On the line, Paul Whiteman at center, Jan Garber and Roly Vallee at the ends; Ted Weems and Wayne King, tackles; Joe Sanders and Carleton Coon, guards.

There's an all-star lineup! We rate them three touchdowns better than anything we've seen on paper.

And the gorgeous thing is that three boys would present a fine appearance in uniform—all well proportioned for the positions assigned.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Pleading a case in Criminal Court as lunch time drew nigh, Louis Kaufman asked the judge to recess until 1:15 instead of 1 o'clock as he had a noon program to announce. Informing the jurors that Mr. Kaufman was senior announcer at KDKA, the judge granted his request and court was adjourned until 1:15.

Old Fort for Rent

The French war office is looking for a summer boarder, who likes quiet, to rent Fort Boyard, which stands on a rock, well out to sea.

Four Days for Trip to Moon

A trip to the moon in a rocket ship, if it could be made at all, says Prof. John Q. Stewart, Princeton astronomer, probably would take about four days.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Is It Necessary to Have Money to Be Happy?

Are the Newlyweds "just existing" if they can't afford mink coats 'n' diamond bracelets, marble foyers 'n' mauve tiled baths?

Phil Allen put this question up to us first. Phil was in love. But—dared he ask the lady of his heart to share his lot when all he made was $35 a week? We figured the gals themselves were the ones to give him his answer . . . so we asked 'em.

And did they encourage him? They did, lady, and how! Scores of 'em.

"We've done it!" exulted Betty. "We have $39 now . . . but we started on only $27! And we've been happy, too!" And then she proceeded to tell us how she did it.

Girl Is Puzzled

"Miss Sally Martin:

"That letter from Betty, in tonight's paper, in which she wrote about living on $39 a week, has me wondering what kind of people write to you, anyway. Do they use the sense God gave them, or are they trying to spoof you?

"She said that out of their combined income—she said $39 a week—they saved $63 a month, and she advocates other people trying to do the same!

And the rent! Will you please tell me where a couple of white adults could rent an apartment for $39 a month, even without heat? Evidently these two don't need a little thing like that! Perhaps, with stinting, they could pay for food, electricity and gas on $48 a month, but it looks fishy to me! Remember ice is not mentioned, and the young lady must do all the laundry.

"And they must be heathens, because church was not spoken of. And insurance must be an unheard of luxury. What's meant, too, by $12 a month 'extra spending money.' Is it supposed to be $6 a month each for man and wife to spend on lunch and carfare? I wonder!

Advocates More Spending

"Well, they do one of two things—they either eat lunch for 20 cents a day and walk to work (and walking is hard on shoes) or they ride and go without lunch and pick up the newspapers on the trains. Ye gods! Think of a husky man eating lunch on 20 cents a day!

"Personally, I would advocate those two tightwads loosening up a bit on that $63 monthly saving, because it is going to be a cold winter with no heat, little food and no clothing to speak of, not to mention walking to work! If that is what you call living, I'd cash in right now!

"I'm speaking from experience, too, when I say they're doing what Betty says. I am married, too, and working, and our combined income is double what these folks say they have, and life is still a struggle . . .

"The only difference between us and Betty and her husband is that we're trying to live, while they are not even existing!

"VIOLA."

Are you sure about that, Vi? Are you sure that you're not making your lives "just existing." Trying to put up a Big Front that'll make your friends gasp with envy and imagine you're about 100 per cent more prosperous than you really are?

Thousands of otherwise smart people in the United States are frazzling their nerves and etching wrinkles on their faces doing just that! And I have a big hunch that you're one of 'em!

There are other thousands—many more thousands than you suspect, Sister, who live simply and joyously in the companionship of their families and of friends they don't need to impress and parade before, in spite of the fact that their purses would be beneath the notice of all but the poorest of pickpockets.

Game of Living

They can live joyously on little because they're clever enough to make that little go far . . . and because they have something within themselves that is simple and genuine and courageous. Something that makes life sing, even if they can't buy tenderloin steaks and imported mushrooms . . . even if they haven't the latest in trick clothes and raspberry fingernails. They make a game of living. They're not above rummaging in the icebox and carrying a lunch, if money is scarce. And they don't whine when they have to exercise such economies.

And where'll they find an apartment for $30 a month? In thousands of places, Sister! You wouldn't care for what they find, perhaps. They're not in swank neighborhoods that would impress your snooty friends. They haven't flossy entrances and liveried hall boys—nor the latest in trick furnishings. And because they haven't these things, they're cheap. But that's no sign they're not comfortable. It's no sign they haven't plenty of fresh, clean air and bright sunshine. Thousands of them have . . .

And those people are the salt of this earth. They're the people the foundations of this nation rest on. They're the people who are not dependent on things . . . the people who make an adventure of living . . . and I'll gamble they're getting far fatter dividends out of life than you are!

Men Too Often Unsympathetic to Efficient Girl Employes, Says Fay King

SUCH A PITY THAT A BEAUTIFUL CHORUS GIRL SHOULD BE WITHOUT ERMINES AND EMERALDS
BUT THE OFFICE WORKER SHOULD DO WONDERS WITH HER SMALL SALARY
SO SAD TO SEE A BEAUTIFUL ADVENTURESS WITHOUT A PENT-HOUSE AND IMPORTED CAR
FAY KING

By FAY KING

One of the little comedies of life is a rich man's sympathy where women are concerned.

How quirkly he can understand the hardship of a beautiful chorus girl who has had to struggle along without a sable coat and square diamonds.

No sob story touches him so deeply as that of the beautiful adventuress who sighs for a penthouse and an imported car.

But how blind he is to the brave girls who work in his office and manage to look nice and take care of their dependents on the comparative pittance he pays them for the important work they do.

Should they ask for a raise he will probably ask them what they do with all their money.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Phil Veritzen Is Fooled—But Not for Long

The whip-poor-will's call was so realistic that I protested when Mr. Underwood sprang into the car with a muttered "That's the Dicky-bird, we'll beat it."

"That can't be Dicky," I said. "There's a real whip-poor-will in the lilac hedge that calls every night. Suppose Dicky is coming after us now?"

"Sorry, Lady Fair," he said inexorably, "but I couldn't mistake that call in a hundred years. The Dicky-bird and I have used it too often in our various ructions together. He said to be on our way when we heard it, and that's where we are."

Swiftly, but with infinite pains to make the minimum of noise, he eased the car forward upon the upward climb to the hill at the rear of the farm.

"Lucky there's no moon," he said. "They can't see us up here, and if they do hear the motor, which I doubt, they'll think it's over on the side road."

"One thing's certain," he said later as if to himself. "Veritzen thinks too much of that car and of his own dignity to chase us through here, even if he's found out we are down here and that we went this way, both of which things I doubt. But then, who in blazes is coming after us?"

He stopped the car and throttled it down to a murmur so low that only by straining our ears could we hear it.

"Open the door a little and listen," he said.

Noel obeyed the first command, and both of us, the second. It was but an instant before we heard the crackle as of snapping sticks a long way behind us.

"I thought so," Mr. Underwood said. "Well, we'll soon know who wants us." Then we waited while the occasional crackle of sticks sounded nearer. Noel and I were on our knees now, our faces pressed against the rear window of the car, while Mr. Underwood had alighted from the car and was standing in an attitude which I knew was that of a man prepared to use physical violence if he was compelled to do so. And then as a man on a bicycle rounded the turn just behind us, and at sight of the car, dismounted abruptly, I caught my breath in joyous recognition, and at the same instant heard Harry Underwood exclaim:

"Well, you blasted old horse-thief. Whose is the bike, Jim's?"

"Yes," Dicky replied, "and it's lucky for the bike and me you had to go slowly through here. I'm out of training for this kind of exercise. But I simply had to catch you before you got to the road."

"Why?" Mr. Underwood asked as Dicky paused.

"Because, the gifted Mr. Veritzen and his chauffeur are going to camp at the end of it until you come out."

"Then they're on?" Mr. Underwood's voice was sharp with disappointment.

"They're not sure, but they suspect something's up and they're taking no chances."

"How did you know?"

"I'm most very proud of that," Dicky said ruefully, "but when Otto tried to snoop around the backyard and the barn while Veritzen was talking to Dad—I pocketed my scruples and, sneaking around to the back of the Veritzen car, I perched on the trunk rack and prepared to use my ears. When finally Veritzen came down to the steps, exchanging courteous farewells with your father—they were both magnificent, by the way, he was so mad he sizzled. Otto was standing at attention beside the car and when your father had shut the housedoor, Veritzen shot a volley of questions at Otto.

"'Well? What did you find out? Did anybody come down here? Did my son go away with anybody?'

"'I don't know the last, sir,' Otto said, 'and I couldn't see any tracks of a car coming in, but there's something up, for their man wouldn't let me past the house. He was watching for something, too, expected I'd try to look around.'

"Then Veritzen ripped out a couple of oaths that I'm going to add to my vocabulary—they're priceless, and he said:

"'There's some sort of a road at the back there. I walked through it one day from the hotel and went back when I got to the hill without disturbing the people at the farm. Drive down to the main road, Otto, like the devil, and we'll wait at the spot where that road comes out on the main one.'

"Well! by the Lord Harry, my namesake," they'll have a long, cold wait," Mr. Underwood said gleefully. "We'll just go the other way."

Household Hints

Soiled towels are not attractive when hanging in the pantry. Wash them out after each meal, adding a little ammonia to the soapsuds in which you wash them. Your towels will stay sweet and clean.

Linen dealers tell us never to let linens freeze on the line in the winter, as it strains the fiber and in a short time cracks will appear in the folds. Rather sacrifice purity of color and dry them in the house in the bitter weather.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct Address Essential

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to know the proper time to send a gift to a bride and groom who sent me an announcement, which was received after the marriage. At present they are away on their honeymoon and I am not familiar with either of their former addresses, nor do I know where their home will be after their return. I presume they will send "At Home" cards later, but was just a bit dubious as to the time I should send the gift.

MRS. H.

Under this kind of circumstances, we must wait until we have an adequate address to which to send the gift. You will, no doubt, have some word soon of a definite address, and then send your gift.

Three Generations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Our son is named for his father and grandfather, both living. He is R. G., third. Is his father R. G., second, or R. G., junior, as he was before the birth of our son?

2—At the death of the grandfather, does the father become R. G., senior and the boy R. G., junior, or do they retain their present titles?

Thank you for your ever-competent advice. A. L.

1—His father is R. G., junior, as he was before the birth of your son.

2—At the death of the grandfather, the father becomes R. G., senior, and the boy becomes R. G., junior.

(Thank you for the appreciative word—you were very kind.)

If the chin looks as if it is likely to go double any minute anoint with a heavy cream, pick up the flesh and roll firmly between thumb and first finger. Never fail to follow up with applications of ice.

A henna pack-pure powdered Egyptian henna mixed with a little hot water acts more quickly on hair that is dry and in need of a shampoo than it does when put on directly after the shampoo. Apply with a small brush. In 10 minutes remove with soap and water.

Skinny gals should eat raisins. They—the raisins—carry 100 nice fat calories to the ounce. They contain iron, which is supposed to be good for nervous ladies. Dates, prunes, figs and honey are swell-elegant food for the slimp who would add poundage to her frame. A quart of milk a day not only fattens, but provides material for tooth repair.

Bathbags are a delightful luxury. Mix together two pounds of oatmeal, four ounces of powdered orris, three ounces of pure castile soap shaved fine. Keep in glass jars. Fill cheesecloth bags as they are needed. Make small ones, as they can be used only a few times. Bath salts soften the water and impart a refreshing odor. Turkish towels of unbleached linen are another luxury of the toilette.

When the neck is several shades darker than the complexion, start on a ritual of lemon rubs. Cut a lemon in half, and rub the pulpy portion over the neck, all the way round. When the juice is well distributed, pat the neck briskly.

It's no news to married women that men are using cosmetics. Many a wife knows what becomes of her cold creams, bath salts and complexion powder. Husbands leave traces. Cold cream on towels, powder on dressers. Can't tell us!

Getting fat to decamp from the calves of the legs requires faith and endless exercise. The best stunt is to jump rope. Kicking exercises will shake off adipose tissue from legiets, but they are too strenuous to be continued for any great length of time. Swimming is recommended. It is good for all muscles, all tissues; it is the ideal exercise.

There can be no set rules concerning the period of time that should elapse between shampoos. If the atmosphere is dust-laden and the brain thatch oily, the weekly scrubbing is recommended. It does no harm if a mild, melted soap is used, the rinsing is thorough and prolonged, and the scalp dried immediately with brisk friction. It acts as a vitalizing scalp treatment.

How to Keep Well

'Slow-Down'—It's Wise These Fast Living Days

We live in a time when too many men and women overdo. They burn the candle at both ends. They are so tired all the time that they seem hopelessly wrecked.

DR COPELAND

This is the fault of the modern system. It is the wrong system. If you are wise you will learn to say "no" to the many demands of social and business life.

If you don't reform, your doctor will become your chief companion. He may be the best chap on earth, but, even so, it gets tiresome to have a doctor at your elbow every day. It is far better to reform your daily life.

Among the evils of overwork and worry is found low blood pressure.

In the absence of bodily abuse, most cases of low blood pressure follow a constitutional disorder of some sort. This may be an involvement of the heart or of the kidneys. It may result from some long continued nervous disorder.

Some persons appear to lack sufficient blood pressure to meet the needs of circulation. It happens often that there is no evidence of illness, at least not enough to cause the low pressure.

In all such cases there is lack of energy, loss of vitality and mental depression. There is likely to be headache and a general run-down condition.

If your doctor tells you you are suffering from low blood pressure, he will probably prescribe some tonic, which will do much to benefit you. In addition, you should have plenty of nourishing food in well balanced meals. There must be regular and proper exercise and sufficient rest and sleep.

You should be out-of-doors a great deal, in the sunlight, if possible. Give yourself the benefit of deep breathing exercises.

Be regular in your eating. Take your meals on time. Among the foods best suited to restore your vigor, are milk, eggs, well-cooked meats in moderation, fresh fruits and vegetables as well as cooked vegetables. It is a good thing to change the usual program, by eating more frequently and less at a time. This is a good rule to follow if your vitality is low from any cause.

Your physician will give you a thorough examination to see that no kidney trouble exists. He will make sure that the heart is in good condition.

Since low blood pressure usually indicates lowered vitality, the body must be built up in all ways. As you grow stronger physically, your vitality will increase. At the same time your ambition will be restored to normal.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, December 31

The planetary aspects for this day promise much activity, incidental to a general moving about and winding up of affairs long in an obstinately crystalized condition. The prospects are excellent for change, new ventures of a radical nature and also for all literary and industrial pursuits. But a note of warning must be sounded against too hastily made decisions and rash and tempestuous conduct. It is an auspicious time for renewing contracts.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a new year of excellent promise, with much stirring about in new ventures, with old obstacles removed, and the opportunity for making radical and successful readjustments. But a too aggressive or impetuous embracing of favorable situations is not advised, nor quarrels.

A child born on this day should be extremely active, energetic, aggressive and adventurous, with much ingenuity, skill, originality and practicality contributory to its success. But it may need discipline in self-restraint.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

A London judge (a bachelor) tells us that women are the world's best liars. He thinks that if it were not for perjury, court trials would be incredibly shortened.

Perjury could be stopped quickest "on advice of counsel." It's the lawyers who frame most of the lies told by witnesses in court. People in serious trouble will do anything to save their souls. Perhaps even a judge would. In fact quite a few judges have done it, or haven't you heard? The women are in the minority when it comes to court liars. As a matter of fact men are afraid of women witnesses—unless they are testifying for themselves—because they are too often weakened at an important moment and give way to tears and confessions. They never do when they are saving their own souls. And you wouldn't either, so don't smile.

It's at the little white lies that the women excel. In fact, women thoroughly enjoy telling white lies, even when they do it with no good purpose in mind.

The best liar I ever knew was a perfectly charming and delightful blonde, slim and chic, and with no other idea than to give all those present a good hearty laugh. A worthy purpose, I say. She didn't hurt anybody by her exaggerations and downright lying, and she couldn't possibly find enough amusing incidents that were true to keep her listeners entertained continually, so she made them up. Delightful fabrications. She was never dull company.

But it seems to me that the word liar isn't quite kind enough for her. It sounds hard and the girl wasn't. But you'd never get her in a situation she couldn't wiggle out of.

The bachelor judge says that nothing could exceed women's audacious reliance upon their sex when it comes to perjuring themselves in court.

Well— they have had to wiggle out of sad situations for a good many centuries and they couldn't do it by fighting with their fists, and they were not as able physically as men to stand jail sentences, and then any woman, I don't care who or what she is, abhors anything as inartistic as a jail, so somehow they just put everything they have into their court lies. If they are going to do it, leave it to the women to do it WELL. The judge agrees they have succeeded. If they have succeeded, the men judges must have been moved. The idea of a poor weak judge being moved by a lying woman! Mercy, mercy! But if they weren't the women wouldn't continue lying.

The reason men don't lie as well or as often, is that they can't be annoyed with the details involved in a right smart lie.

PLAYS SEEN THROUGH CRITICS' EYES

'Bad Girl' Not So Very Bad And Claiborne Foster Very Good Indeed

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

JUST A FEW weeks ago we found they had dramatized the Einstein theory, and now they've made a play out of "What Every Girl Should Know." Maybe Euclid or Darwin will be next. There is drama everywhere, it seems, though a sympathetic survey of "Bad Girl" at the Alvin Theater doesn't reveal very much of it in the three acts fashioned from Vina Delmar's novel by Brian Marlow. If it were not for the pathetic twist with which Claiborne Foster calls her "Eddie," and if it were not for the lyric humor of the closing scene when the two happy young morons are taking their baby home in a taxi, "Bad Girl" would be merely a series of episodes and arguments, with bits of gynecological information sprinkled over them.

George Seibel

But if there is anyone that can say "Gee" in a tone of wistful simplicity that makes it sound like a sonnet, Claiborne Foster can do it.

There is nothing highbrow about this play. The words spoken to the father of the little stranger, "Anybody as dumb as you are needs a guardian angel," apply to everybody in the cast. There is a woman in the maternity ward of the hospital who is reading a volume of Browning or something, but she doesn't count. She isn't even married.

Eddie and Dot, Maude and Pat, Sue and Ted are noble specimens of the unintelligentsia. That is the peculiar quality of this play. It is the rudiments of biology translated into slang and punctuated with profanity.

BUT FOR A' THAT

This does not mean that the drama has no justification. Even the affections and aspirations of the amoeba and the slipper animalcule have their tragic and pathetic sides. "Gee" can be as eloquent as Desdemona's anguish or Perdita's faith when Claiborne Foster utters it. She makes much of this rather hollow play sound like poetry, and takes the tang of sensationalism out of the material.

Anybody who expects anything lurid or prurient in "Bad Girl," is apt to be disappointed. There are no reticences—plenty of spades are mentioned by name—but it all has a domestic flavor and scent. Sometimes a little too domestic! Just as Reuben and Jemima used to go to the theater to see a locomotive or a fire engine on the stage, though they could have seen them for nothing in the street, so they can now see and hear all about the mystery of life when Dot and Edna and Sue and Maude get together.

It descends to some intimate details, but it is not vulgar. And the play has nothing of that erotic atmosphere that used to envelop the performances of Olga Nethersole or Mrs. Leslie Carter.

EXIT THE STORK

Of course it is dreadfully iconoclastic—it will shake almost anybody's faith in the legend of the Stork. One by one our illusions are swept away. Some day a dramatist will break the news to a horrified world that there is no Santa Claus.

He'll be forgiven if he does it as gently and delicately as "Bad Girl" puts the pathos and poetry of motherhood, despite the slang and cusswords. And if the players that interpret the drama are gifted with as much human humor and elemental reality as these players in "Bad Girl."

Charlotte Wynters as Edna, Angela Jocobs as Mrs. Lensky, Mary Harrison as Mrs. Vernon, Joan Winters and Sascha Beaumont as Sue and Maude were all true to type. And Buford Armitage as Eddie is the glorified moron par excellence.

That's what this play does. It adds the thirty-seventh dramatic situation to Polti's work on technique. Incubation—that's it. It isn't as blunt and crude as the novel was—but it's hardly a play in the accepted sense—just a series of episodes padded with Edna's epigrams. And that last scene in the taxi shows Claiborne Foster at her best in a revelation of poetry and humor as the young mother.

Yes, you can make a play out of anything.

JOE HILLER OFFERS NEW CABARET REVUE

Joe Hiller is presenting a new revue on the Show Boat. Wells and Brady, held over for a second week, offer a new repertoire of song. Freddie Bernard, master of ceremonies, offers new songs. Babe Kane sings "Follow Through." Helen Grey and Zoe and Phillippe dance. Jimmy Carr provides dance music.

ACADEMY BURLESQUE IS 'GIRLS IN BLUE'

"Girls in Blue" with Ann Corio featured is the current attraction in the Academy. Miss Corio's dancing and singing and the comedy of Hap Flower and Clyde Bates are prominent. Joe Delano, baritone, and especially skits are other features. Principals include Ruth Bradley, persona decna, Lew Perret, Jean Gaskell and Buddy Nichols.

A midnight performance of "Girls in Blue" will be given New Year's eve. This show will begin at 12:05 a. m., and will be followed by another special performance at 3 a. m.

Show Boat Cabaret Rights Not Involved

The floating cabaret "The Show Boat," docked at the foot of Sixth street, is not involved with public officials over rights to operate on the wharf, its management today was informing patrons. Confusion over a similarity of names had caused many persons to believe it was the cabaret boat that had been refused a permit to operate. The boat so involved is another which features theater attractions. It is docked farther down the wharf.

'Made in Hollywood,' Now Headed for New York, Stops in Nixon

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The Nixon has "Gone Hollywood," to express it under the title by which the play that opened there last night will be known when it reaches New York next week. Despite anything New York may be able to do about it, it probably will reach New York, for it is produced by Brock Pemberton, a gentleman of high standing in the theater. Mr. Pemberton keeps his word and, if we rely upon the New York press, he has announced a Broadway opening for next week.

"Made In Hollywood," to give it its title of the present, was written by Donald Davis. Mr. Davis still is a young man. He has the young man's point of view and enthusiasm, one judges, for originality of expression. Certainly the theater needs young men whose thoughts are vibrant and alive and youthful and vigorous.

BOW TO EARNESTNESS

So it ill behooves a sitter on the sidelines of artistic endeavor to belittle what is quite evident an earnest attempt to create a drama from the hodge-podge of nonsense, cross purposes, and crassness of Hollywood's "dialecticians," as Walter Winchell is wont to dub certain characteristic "magnates" of the movie industry.

Yet the fact that the attempt is earnest does not lessen the fact that the technique of the burlesque stage does not appear to be applicable to the subject in the hands of Mr. Davis, and that seems to be the treatment—intentional or not—that Mr. Davis has given it. There may be in Hollywood all the "nuttiness" that is depicted in the new play, but the presentation of it in this case is so diffused that there is lack of coherence and any focal point that stays fixed long enough for the audience to be pricked to the point of attention or even to be amused by it as straight burlesque, if that be the purpose.

GETS WAKEFUL AT LAST

Some time ago we warned persons intending to see "Children of Darkness" not to sleep beyond the beginning of the third act, as that was the time the play really came to life. "Made in Hollywood" is somewhat different for those who must nap in theaters. Sleep on until within about one minute of the final curtain. There'll be no need to set the alarm. The action on the stage then will awaken all slumberers.

The play, naturally, being about Hollywood has many wise cracks and allusions to the "facts of life" but they fail to register. Winchell evidently has made that sort of stuff too commonplace.

The company strives mightily but to little avail except to have the satisfaction of doing their durndest. Alan Brooks, as a goofy director, gets that impression over very well indeed. So does James B. Carson, whose dialect is correct for the "movie magnate" part he has. Goeffrey Bryant, Dennie Moore, Germaine De Renty, John Wesley, Charles C. Wilson and Margaret Lee also are prominent.

We liked the "yes men."

PAJAMAS, SLAPSTICK AND FARCE RUN WILD IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," Mark Swan's three-act farce, is the new George Sharp presentation in the Pitt. It is howling, rowdy and funny. The second act kept last night's audience in a laughing uproar.

The plot is all about a young husband who has a terrible time living up to his counterfeit reputation of being a philandering fiend.

Lenita Lane makes her debut in the production as the company's new leading woman. But her part is overshadowed by characters essayed by Hugh Banks and Mabel Kroman. These two go into a clinch that would burn up the film if it were a movie.

SHE TEACHES ROMEO

Mr. Banks plays the young husband. And Miss Kroman is a Winnie Lightner sort of person, who helps him put over the idea that he's a great Romeo. She shows him how this love-making is done. She leaves him breathless.

Alice Ann Baker is prominent, too. Her present role is a far cry from the motherly roles she does so often. Dignity shrieks out loud when Mr. Banks spies her in that second act.

Peggy Dougherty is seen as a young wife, whose secret joy is the thought that her husband is attractive to other women. Her chief worry, when he elopes with another lady, is that he forgot his tooth brush.

ENTERS MR. VAIL

Edwin Vail, the fellow who stages and supervises, contributes an amusing acting bit as a hand-writing expert. And Technical Director Charles Webster faces the lights in a bellhop role. Other players include Paul McGrath, Robert Fiske and Katherine Maison.

The enthusiasm Mr. Banks puts into his portrayal comes as a pleasant surprise. He works hard and he works well. As for Miss Kroman, she is quite the life of the party. From Row H it looks as if she has as much fun as the audience.

Boisterous farce, with a slapstick here and a slapstick there, that is the presentation. And the green and the blue pajamas look very nice.

VOCALIST HERE FOR DEDICATION

Mrs. Emanuel DeRoy, dramatic soprano, was to be guest artist at the dedication of the Holy Ark of the Rina Israel Synagogue at 8:15 p. m. today. The dedication was to be held with formal exercises in honor of the women of the congregation, in recognition of their fulfillment of their $10,000 pledge for the new ark.

Mrs. DeRoy

During the ceremony, women who have contributed toward the fund were to be presented with honor certificates and their names were to be inscribed in the Golden Book, to be kept in the archives of the congregation.

Besides Mrs. DeRoy's accompanist, Miss Sylvia Tobe, the following persons were to appear on the program: Mrs. Barnett Davis, chairman; Rabbi A. Lichter, Saul Schein, Mrs. Saul Schein, Mrs. A. H. Rosenberg, the Rev. J. Bloom, Mrs. I. P. Miller, Mrs. D. Karl.

Miss Tobe

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

HOLDUP VICTIMS IDENTIFY SUSPECT

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

William Pfarr

It is a burlesque house now but 20, 30, 40 and 50 years ago it was the town's outstanding theater. When its doors were opened in 1860 it was modest Library Hall. Later it was changed to the Bijou, then the Lyceum, in Penn avenue, near Sixth street.

They played the old melodramas there, and the visiting star might be Minnie Maddern Fiske one week and Jim Corbett, the heavyweight champion, the next. Once they had a homespun product on the stage, a thriller called "The Riddle Boys," and based, of course, on the career of the Riddle brothers, who escaped from the local jail.

Cliff Wilson, who was with the Bijou from its inception, doesn't remember who authored "The Riddle Boys" but he does remember that the play did more business than any other which ever graced or disgraced the boards of the Bijou. The receipts for one week were $16,000.

Chauncey Olcott, the singer, was the favorite actor of Bijou and Lyceum audiences, but there was an old meller which drew even better than Mr. Olcott—"Her Fatal Wedding." Several times a season that tear-inspiring melodrama was good for a week's capacity business.

All of the old dependable mellers were dusted off some time or other in this old house, from "After Dark" to "Uncle Tom's Cabin," from Charlie Aldrich in "Secret Service Spy" to "that supreme effort of all sensational melodramas," "Her First False Step;" from Joe Welch in "The Peddler" to, as the program described it, a drama that teaches a moral lesson, "Dangers of Working Girls."

Cliff Wilson is manager of the Lyceum Building now. Fifty years ago he was an usher in Library Hall. When Richard M. Gulick took over the Bijou he took over Wilson. Between the two there grew a warm friendship. Sam Watters, now the secretary of the Pirate ball club, was the ticket seller at the Bijou 25 years ago and later the late Elmer Rigdon, well remembered newspaperman, joined the staff as publicity agent. Emil Wolf was directing "The Unrivaled Bijou Theater," having succeeded Phil Weis, who was in the pit in the theater's early days.

Then, too, there was John Varley, who helped Wilson.

"Varley," Wilson tells, "was my best friend, and a good worker. I remember the time he was arrested posting bills for a fine old play called 'For Her Children's Sake.'"

"Barney McKenna was mayor then and in those days the mayor heard the police cases. Well, Barney and John and I were good friends. In fact, many's the time we got together at old Amen Corner. When the ordinance officer brought John up before Barney, Barney said to him, 'John, what were you putting up these posters for?'

"'Well,' said Barney, 'That's good enough for me. Discharged!'"

Then there was the time that William A. Brady, known today as the producer of "Street Scene," brought Jim Corbett to town soon after Corbett had won the heavyweight championship.

A few days before the play opened, Corbett's advance man arrived and said to Wilson, "Cliff, we need 300 extras every night for the boxing audience in the third act. It's expensive but we'll have to pay 'em 25 cents each a night."

An idea came to Wilson.

"Listen," he said, "you sign this paper agreeing to pay me $5 and I'll get you 300 extras for the whole week for that."

The paper was signed. Corbett came to town and was greeted by a capacity audience.

At intermission, between second and third act, Wilson still had not supplied the 300 extras who were to sit on the stage as the audience for the third act fight scene.

As the second act curtain fell he went up into the big gallery with a pocketful of special tickets and made this speech to the shelf patrons:

"Ringside seats for the big fight scene, ten cents!"

Needless to say, Wilson said nothing to Brady of how he had obtained the extras. But at Wednesday matinee, Wilson again was taking his mob backstage when Brady suddenly cut them short and announced there were too many. Somehow or other Wilson had sold 50 tickets too many.

"We want our money back," the surplus supers yelled.

"What money?" asked Brady, who thought that he was paying these customers.

And that was the last week that Bill Brady ever paid for extras for Jim Corbett.

READY FOR BANDITS

RUTH UNDERWOOD WITH TEAR GAS DEVICES

She has everything in the line of defense, from the midget vest-pocket gun to the big police riot cannon, mace and hand grenades.

NEW TEAR GAS BALKS BANDITS

Tear gas in the form of fog which provides a cover of impenetrable mist is the latest development for protection from bandits, it was revealed today following announcement that the Citizens Trust Company, Bellevue, would be equipped with the new device.

The new tear-gas fog, a development of Dr. Alexander Lowy, chief chemist at the Federal Laboratories, Inc., will supplant the regulation police and United States Army equipment of straight tear gas in bank and cashier installations, particularly, it was declared by John W. Young, president. Its advantage, he pointed out, makes a holdup by masked bandits impossible in that they are not able to see objects more than a few inches away so dense is the fog created instantly with the tear gas.

Another new development in the tear gas laboratories here is the portable hand type trench mortar, recently adopted by the United States Army for ground troops. The new device can be carried by the soldier and set up on the instant. It fires 30 tear gas projectiles a minute. Its maximum range is 750 yards.

The airplane smoke screen equipment, recently tested by Army fliers who completely hid New York City behind a wall of fog, also was developed here.

Two Children Hurt In Auto Collision

Freda Lacher, 7, and her brother, Theodore, 5, of Ridge avenue, Overbrook, were slightly injured last night when the automobile driven by their father, Theodore Lacher, collided with one driven by M. J. Campbell, of R. D. 1, Library, in front of the Central School, Overbrook.

Family Discord Leads Insanity Causes

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Disappointment in love drives fewer people mad than family discord, if the statistics of Dr. C. A. Bonner can be taken as establishing a general rule.

Dr. Bonner, superintendent of a state hospital at Hawthorne, Mass., told the association for research in nervous and mental diseases he had been able to classify the causes of 100 cases of maniac-depressive psychosis, or emotional insanity, as follows:

Friction or discord in the family, 25; financial troubles, including loss of savings in stock transactions and unemployment, 15; recent deaths of a relative or close friend, 9; serious anxiety over the health or conduct of a member of the family, 16; disappointment in love, 6.

OFFICERS TRAIL KIDNAP CAR

Mary Cicconi, 9-year-old Leetsdale girl, found dazed in an abandoned automobile in the Darlington road, five miles from Beaver Falls, continued to improve at her home today, while police renewed efforts to capture her kidnaper. The child, lured into the car Saturday, was missing from home 18 hours.

She furnished a description of her abductor to authorities and search was being continued today through the North Side. Police learned the car in which the girl was found suffering from cold and exposure had been stolen from that section Saturday.

Corp. H. B. Frazier and Private H. N. Ardinger, of the state highway patrol, said their investigation disclosed the automobile had been taken from Martin Eckerode, of 1510 Woodland avenue, early Saturday afternoon.

Christmas Party Given By Dormont Firemen

Santa Claus, as impersonated by Robert Goodwin, appeared before children of Dormont Volunteer Firemen at the firemen's Christmas party at the Dormont Municipal Building, last night, and presented each child a bag containing toys, fruit and candy.

A big Christmas tree, heavily laden with ornaments and electric lights, surrounded by dolls and other toys, was a feature. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served the parents. Fire Chief William Elcott was chairman of the committee on arangements.

LISTS CLOSING IN RESOLUTION CONTEST

Last Day for Entries Finds Interest High in New Year Ideas for Welfare of All

Catching the fancy and intellectual prowess of thousands, the Sun-Telegraph Resolutions Contest with its money reward and potential benefit to the Pittsburgh district has invaded every circle. The contest ends at 5 o'clock tonight.

FIRST PRIZE $100

The first prize for the resolution submitted which presents the most practical, far-seeing and entirely useful idea will be $100, with a number of lesser prizes. The idea to be send the Resolutions Editor a 50-word syllabus containing a resolution that would, put in motion, do the greatest amount of good to the Pittsburgh district.

Numerous telephone calls have been received by the Resolutions Editor asking whether the resolution should be personal or general.

DEPENDS ON IDEA

The answer is that it depends on the idea. If personal, it should reach a common ground so that great number of people could, claiming it as their own, make use of it, or if general, individuals could adapt it to their own conditions and projects.

The contest ends at 5 p. m. today. Rush your resolution to the Sun-Telegraph Resolutions Editor, Sun-Telegraph Square, Pittsburgh.

CITY MAY DROP MAPPED LANE

Strawberry lane, a street on the North Side laid out to a width of 33 feet in 1785 and never opened, will be partly vacated to clear the title of a property owner if City Council acts favorably on the matter.

Strawberry lane is an extension of Izora street in the Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth wards. E. A. Etzel who owns property to the center of the old lane along Charles street has asked for the vacation from Charles street to the Uniondale Cemetery line, a distance of about 90 feet. Title to the other half of the street is held by the cemetery. The Department of Public Works has raised no objection to the change.

LUMBER FIRM PURCHASED

The May Lumber Company will begin operation once again as an independent firm. Its new operation will be started January 2, Charles H. Weber, president and chairman of the board, announced. The company has been a subsidiary of the Keystone Lumber Company for about five years.

The purchase of the organization was made by Weber, a member of the Keystone Lumber Company for some years, under an agreement with the Keystone company. Weber, with Walter E. Hatch, Charles B. Geiss, and J. Gilbert Taylor, have incorporated under a capitalization of $150,000. Weber says that all employes of the new company have been taken from the Keystone Lumber Company, who will not, at present, he says, replace them.

Two Brought Here On Federal Charge

Lavern Mowery, 21, and Charles O. Henderson, Jr., 23, of Derry, Pa., were arrested in Tampa, Fla., and brought to Pittsburgh by a deputy United States marshal to answer a charge of stealing merchandise from interstate shipments of freight. The alleged thefts were from freight cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Derry. Complaints had been filed before the United States commissioner here.

Fall to Jail Floor Causes Man's Death

Harry Basco, 50, of 338 Gardner street, McKees Rocks, died in Allegheny Hospital this morning from injuries received when he fell on a cement floor in the County Jail Sunday night.

Basco was committed to jail by the burgess of McKees Rocks for 20 days on a charge of drunkenness. An autopsy will be performed by the coroner's physician.

BANK BANDIT EVIDENCE PILES UP

Three Say Harris Robbed Garage; Manchester Link Stronger, Detectives Say

The city detectives' case against Joseph Harris, alias Benny Guettman, held in connection with the $50,000 holdup of the Manchester Savings Bank and Trust Company, was strengthened today as the prisoner was partially identified, detectives say, as one of the robbers who participated in the holdup of 11 men and women in the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company's garage, 1100 Western avenue, North Side, November 29.

Harris, who police say is known in the underworlds of many large cities, continues to deny participation in the bank holdup.

Three of the victims of the garage holdup appeared at a standup today and said they felt sure that Harris was the man who wielded a shortened shotgun during the robbery.

Harris and a woman, who gave her name as Dorothy Martin, 26, of West Canal street, were arrested yesterday by Detectives Walter Monaghan, Thomas Morgan and Joseph Leith. The woman had no connection with the bank robbery, the sleuths declared, and last night was released on a $50 forfeit.

Harris was arrested after William S. Minnick, teller, and Joseph Hennigan, bookkeeper in the bank, identified his photograph from a number of others in the Bertillon room of the detective bureau. Later, detectives said, two other bank employes picked him from a lineup of seven men as the leader of the trio who held up the bank.

CLAIMS ALIBI

Harris told the detectives he was in Cleveland at the time of the robbery. The detectives claimed that they had information to the effect that he was wanted in Cleveland for a $10,000 holdup and similar robberies in other cities.

The extradition of Benjamin Lipkowitz, Harry Hoover and Edward Pishney, three indicted members of the Perry State Bank bandit gang being held in New York, was approved yesterday by Gov. John S. Fisher. Today the papers were to be taken to Gov. Franklin Rooseelt in Albany.

A fourth member of the gang, Emil Grayshock, arrested at his home in a suburb near Akron, O., was being held in Central Police Station with Lewis Francis, to whom Grayshock was alleged to have given some of the loot and a revolver stolen from the Perry Bank.

The arrest of the latter two, detectives asserted, developed that the three suspects arrested in New York with several others had participated in holdups on a hardware store in Paterson, N. J., and a bank in that state.

P. R. R. RETIRES 26 EMPLOYES

Retirement on pension of 26 employes of the Central region, Pennsylvania Railroad, among them three men who have served the company more than 50 years, was announced by officials today. Those serving more than half a century are John L. Ovington, transportation inspector, of Steubenville, O., and John L. Acjlin, engineer, of Parnassus, 54 years each, and John H. Beck, signal maintainer, of Emporium, 50 years and 10 months.

Pittsburgh district employes retired whose service bordered on the 50-year mark were Peter Koonash, Pittsburgh; Hattie E. Hawk, Greensburg; Harry A. Moore, Espyville, and William A. Ermine, Bellwood.

Brentwood Street Pact Given Council

Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works, has placed before City Council a proposed agreement with Brentwood Borough for grading and paving Owendale avenue from Brownsville road to Kestner avenue.

Under the plan, the city would award the contract for the entire improvement and Brentwood would pay the city $27,000 out of a total cost of $52,000.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 30.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

You just got two more days now patriots to sell your stock and charge it off on your income tax and then buy it back Friday. Too bad the old farmer, or salaried man hasn't got any out like that. We ought to have a stock exchange for land and houses and lots, so we could run 'em up and down (for no reason at all), like you can wheat and corn, and everything else.

Will Rogers

Get up in the morning, look at the paper, see what your vacant lot is worth, sell it and charge it off, then buy it back.

Yours,

WILL.

THIRD 'WIFE' ACCUSES MAN CONVICTED HERE OF MAIL FRAUD

THEFT OF BANK FUND CHARGED TO WESLEY

Latest Claim, by Illinois Woman, Sets Her Wedding Date as Earliest of Three Trouble continues to pile up for John W. Wesley, 31, of Detroit, sentenced December 5 in Federal Court here to serve two years in the Atlanta Penitentiary for using the mail in a scheme to defraud women of property and other savings.

Wesley, according to testimony at the trial and records of postoffice authorities, has three wives and is facing a bigamy charge in the Westmoreland County Court and an annulment proceeding in the Allegheny County Court in an action by wife No. 2.

ACCUSED BY THIRD

Postoffice Inspector George V. Craighead yesterday received a letter, accompanied with a photograph of Wesley, from Celia Heffrie, of Joliet, Ill. She said Wesley married her May 22, 1929, at Joliet under the name of "John Arlington," and soon after the "wedding" he disappeared with her life's savings, $1,100.

This wedding date gives her a prior claim on Wesley over Bernice Doolittle, who said she married Wesley at Crown Point, Ind., October 26, 1929, and Mrs. Jean Carroll, of Steubenville, O., formerly of McKeesport, with whom Wesley went through a marriage ceremony at Greensburg, December 28, 1929.

$20,000 THEFT CHARGED

Wesley fell into the clutches of the Federal authorities when Mrs. Carroll reported that her "husband" had decamped with bonds, money and other property, worth $20,000. She also produced letters he had written her prior to the wedding ceremony, which were the grounds for the mail fraud charge.

The Crown Point wife, who attended the trial, contended she was the first wife of Wesley; would remain true to him and be waiting his release from jail.

The Joliet "wife" who has now appeared says that soon after her marriage to Wesley he persuaded her to place her savings with his in a Chicago bank, as a joint account, and that both Wesley and the money disappeared a week later.

SOCIAL WORKER TO SPEAK HERE

The Social Workers Club of Pittsburgh will have Dr. Owen R. Lovejoy, former president of the National Conference of Social Work as the speaker next Tuesday night, January 13, when a meeting of the organization will be held in the Central Y. M. C. A., Wood street. His subject will be "Youth and the Changing Social Order."

Dr. O. R. Lovejoy

He is at present secretary of the Children's Aid Society of New York. The meeting will open at 8 o'clock.

WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE

Mrs. Flora K. Nevins, 21, of Darlington road, whom Judge Joseph Stadtfield has just granted a divorce from Sydney S. Nevins, 26, testified:

"My husband said he only married me for a housekeeper and said he got a pretty rotten one at that."

She said he also accused her of running with other men. The Nevins were married June 12, 1929, and lived in Kittanning, where she said she had to do the cooking because her husband would not allow her a maid.

"He cussed my cooking," she added.

SUSPECT FINED AFTER CAFE HOLDUP

Prisoner Caught in Chase Denies Act; Gets Freedom But Is Refused Revolver

A man who was accused of holding up a Strip restaurant last night won his freedom in Penn avenue police court simply by paying a $50 fine assessed by Magistrate William R. McNamara on a charge of suspicious person.

CAUGHT IN CHASE

Police testified they captured Smith after chasing him a dozen blocks. He was accused of holding up the restaurant of Steven Zatos at 4500 Penn avenue, and escaping with $10.40 from the register.

Smith didn't admit the holdup, explaining he had been drunk, although he doubted that he could have run a dozen blocks over the slippery streets.

Alleged to have been attempting to jimmy the cellar door in the rear of the Sofis Restaurant, 5909 Penn avenue, Raymond Hunter, 24, "city," was caught by Patrolman Edward Hays.

ROB GAS STATION

Three men held up the service station of Albert Nolan, in the Butler plank road, at Undercliff, last night, and escaped with $16 stolen from a cash register, after holding Nolan and two men patrons at bay with a revolver.

An automobile belonging to the G. H. P. Cigar Company, Fifth avenue, stolen at Kennett Square and Craft avenue Sunday night, was recovered at Flemmington and Murray avenues early today. A large quantity of cigars and cigarets, in the car when it was stolen, had not been touched.

BALKING STEER RIDES TO DOOM

The last of a herd of 20 cattle, being driven out Penn avenue to a packing plant early today, was taken for a ride.

The herd had been driven many blocks without difficulty. But in front of a lunch room at Penn and Negley avenues, the last animal in line decided he had gone far enough toward his doom. Even the aid of a policeman failed to help the herder in his attempt to move the stubborn steer.

After further delay a truck was summoned from the packing company and the animal was whizzed past the remainder of the herd to the slaugher house.

VICTIMS OF GAS, THREE OAKLAND GIRLS SAVED

Young Sister Collapses After Arousing Others; Police Inhalator Revives Victims

Police of the Oakland Station and a staff of physicians from Montefiore Hospital worked more than an hour early today before they revived three daughters of Mrs. Rita Smith, of 144 Chesterfield road, Oakland, overcome by gas from a heater in the basement.

They were Margaret, 21; Rita, 15, and Helen, 13. Helen was awakened about 4 a. m. by fumes which filled the room in which she and her sisters were sleeping. She aroused the others, who leaped from their beds, but fell unconscious after taking a few steps.

Mrs. Smith and another daughter, Mary, and a son, John, were awakened by the cries of the girl and run into the room, where they found the victims lying on the floor. The mother called Oakland police station and Lieut. Harry Payne, Patrolmans George [illegible] and Frank Bassett, and [illegible] clothesmen Johns Kennedy and John McGonnigle hurried to the house with an inhalator.

On the way they stopped at the hospital and picked up Dr. Harry Miller, who directed the resuscitation.

FIRE INSURANCE A KEY TO LOW PRICES

FEW have a true appreciation of the far-reaching effect of Stock Fire Insurance in holding down the cost of all merchandise.

"In the United States, as in no other country, has insurance in all its various phases become universally recognized as an essential of commerce and industry. To this fact may be attributed in large measure the achievements of America in business enterprises.

"Insurance encourages men and corporations to hazard their resources on new developments without fear of loss from natural and unavoidable catastrophes."

At every step in the processing and distributing of materials—storage, manufacturing, transportation, wholesaling, retailing—the protection of Stock Fire Insurance contributes that indispensable element of certainty without loading prices for speculative risk.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE companies assume what would otherwise be an oppressive carrying charge against the risk of destruction, and for a premium which on the average is only a fraction of 1 percent of the amount insured.

The more than 250 Stock Fire Insurance companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters have rendered their services at an average price that has constantly declined for many years.

Guests at Helping Hand Steal Police Show

Residents of the Helping Hand, that Water street hotel for the unemployed, stole the show in Central Police Court today.

Sammie Lee, 45, Negro, for instance, was accused of offering Patrolman John Graham a drink of moonshine. Sammie apologized, but that didn't prevent Magistrate Rothenberg from assessing him 60 days.

Elvin Shelton, 27, raised a rumpus because he wasn't called from his slumbers for the free breakfast. Elvin even offered to beat up Patrolman Hugh Lavery, the patrolman said. Ten days, or $10.

And Albert McCullough, 26, was held for investigation when W. R. Clifford, an employe of the Helping Hand, reported that Albert had asked his advice about a series of gasoline station holdups. McCullough, it was testified, produced a map of one North Side station in support of his plan.

GOVERNMENT'S ACT BEGINS PROJECT

Long-Promised Postoffice Appears Closer as U. S. Gives Removal Notices

Pittsburgh's long-promised $8,000,000 federal building appeared another step nearer today as a result of notice given late yesterday to the Pennsylvania Railroad and Burford B. Epstein to vacate the government's property at Seventh avenue and Grant street, site of the proposed building, within 60 days.

Notice was given by D. R. Heiner, collector of internal revenue, and custodian of government property here.

The order calls for the removal by the railroad of the overhead bridge leading from the driveway at the Pennsylvania Station over the tracks to Washington street, water and gas lines, a stone wall and the old milk-loading platform. Epstein, who operates a parking lot, was instructed to remove the high wire fence surrounding the lot, a small building used as an office, and other obstructions.

The time limit for vacating the property expires February 28.

ALLEGHENY DAM WORK RUSHED

Work will be started immediately on a new low dam in the Allegheny River to replace the present Dam No. 2 at Aspinwall, according to Col. Jarvis J. Bain, of the United States Engineers. The idea of a combination high dam and bridge to be built in cooperation with Allegheny County has been abandoned.

Opposition was voiced against the high dam by navigation interests. Government engineers want no delay and have selected the project which will keep the river stages approximately at their present levels.

The City Department of Public Works has been advised that the new dam will be 1,100 feet down stream from the present site, and that it will be necessary to relocate the outlet of the Negley Run sewer so it will discharge below the dam. This must be done to protect the city water supply, which is taken from the pool above the dam. City Council has been asked to provide $130,000 for extension of the sewer.

PLAN TO WIDEN STREET SCORED

The proposed widening of Collins avenue between Penn avenue and Burpee street, East Liberty, has been protested by William A. Goeddel of 1414 Jancey street, in a letter to City Council.

Goeddel states that to carry all of the traffic from the Washington and Allegheny River boulevards into the heart of East Liberty will add greatly to the traffic problem, and that the plan is hasty and lacks careful study. City engineers are now studying the costs of the widening.

Orioles Feed Majors. | Warner's Best Three.
Joke Batting Averages. | Extra Point to Stay.
Rival Stadium in East. | British Boxing Styles.

BALTIMORE BREEDS BASEBALL STARS

IT WOULD BE difficult to pick a more valuable trio in baseball than Babe Ruth, George Earnshaw and Lefty Grove, particularly in view of the prominent pennant and world series parts played by Earnshaw and Grove in the last two seasons, and the fact that all three came to the majors from Baltimore brings to mind that that city cannot be overlooked when the diamond sport's leading producing plants are being discussed. Baltimore has to its credit an output of stars that shows it has not rested on the baseball laurels it won more than 30 years ago when it was the home of the famous old Orioles in the National League.

Babe Ruth

Ned Hanlon's great team of those days, which won the pennant in 1894, 1895 and 1896, remains fresh in the memory of veteran fandom. Such noted players as John McGraw, Wilbert Robinson, Hugh Jennings, Willie Keeler, Joe Kelley, Walter Brodie, Jimmy Donnelly, Heinie Reitz, Kid Gleason, Dan Brouthers, Jack Doyle, Bill Clarke, Frank Bowerman, Joe Corbett, Sadie McMahon, Bill Hoffer, Charley Esper, Tony Mullane, Jerry Nops, Tom O'Brien, Bill Hawke, Bert Inks, George Hemming and others formed an outfit that won a place among the game's immortal clubs.

SEVEN OF THOSE players—McGraw, Robinson, Jennings, Gleason, Kelley, Doyle and Bowerman—became major league managers. McGraw and Robinson are still serving in that capacity, and Gleason is an assistant pilot. But it isn't only that fact that has kept Baltimore prominent on the major map, for though it is no longer in the big show the city has won new fame as the breeding place of talent for the main loops.

No other minor league town has sent so many players of exceptional class to the upper set. The mighty Ruth as the king of sluggers, and Earnshaw and Grove as the greatest pair of pitchers of the present day, are only part of the record-breaking parade. The list of recruits sent up by the Baltimore Internationals, either directly or through other minor league channels after they gained further experience, has included many others of unusual worth.

AMONG THE PITCHERS may be mentioned Ernie Shore, Eddie Rommel, Alphonse Thomas, Waite Hoyt, Jack Quinn, Jack Bentley, Frank Ulrich, Bob Shawkey, John Milligan, Fay Thomas, John Ogden and Herman Holshauser. Others just coming up are Jim Weaver with the Yankees and Stewart Bolen with the Phillies.

The catchers have included Charley Schmidt, Ira Thomas, Walter Lerian and Bill Cronin. Pittsburgh dropped Al Bool after one year, but the Braves have picked him up. Another goes to the Yankees for next season in the person of Tom Padden.

George Earnshaw

LISTED WITH THE infielders are Joe Boley, Max Bishop, Fritz Maisel, Jimmy Smith, Bob James and Johnny Neun, and numbered among the outfielders, in addition to Ruth, are Eddie Murphy, Jimmy Walsh, Dick Porter, George Loepp and Vince Barton. Some of them did not come direct to the majors from the great developing school founded by Jack Dunn, and others were in the big show before going to that city and then did a come-back, but all of those mentioned and more have borne the Baltimore label. There isn't another spot in the minors that has turned out so much big-time stuff.

IF ANY FURTHER evidence that hitting has become a joke is required by the major league magnates, who declined at their winter meetings to do anything about zoning or screening the parks or to admit publicly that the ball now in use is entirely too lively, they need only glance over the official batting averages for 1930.

In the two big circuits no fewer than 107 players finished the campaign with marks of .300 or better. There were 54 in the American League and 53 in the National. Six clubs in the National and three in the American made team averages of .300 or better. There are more .300 hitters on a single club now than could be found in a whole league in the old days. They'd better do something with that ball this winter or the game's farcical trend is going to cost them eventually a lot of patronage and a lot of dollars.

THE YANKEE STADIUM and the Polo Grounds in New York are to have opposition for the big Eastern boxing shows. The new municipal stadium in Jersey City will be finished in June, according to Mayor Hague, and he says nothing would suit him better than to have the next heavyweight championship fight decided there.

The Mayor offers to let the Madison Square Garden people, who promote the big outdoor shows, write their own terms for the use of the stadium. It will have a seating capacity of 110,000, and Hague expresses the opinion that that will suffice for any fight in sight at this time.

Pop Warner

ASKED TO NAME the outstanding football players of all time, Pop Warner picked Frank Hinkey, Yale end; Pudge Heffelfinger, Yale guard and later a member of the Three A professional all-star team here, and Jim Thorpe, Carlisle halfback. He added, however, that Ernie Nevers, Stanford fullback, was a greater back than Thorpe because of his earnestness. "Thorpe had greater natural ability," Pop said, "but Nevers was always trying. Many years ago Thorpe was playing safety when the opposing team sailed a long forward pass down the field. Jim stood under the goal posts and let the receiver, by a miraculous leap, catch the ball for a touchdown. I believed Thorpe could have broken up the play and I asked him about it after the game. 'Sure, I could,' he replied, 'but I didn't think the receiver could get under the ball.'"

THE OPINION OF most football fans that the coaches of the country would, as usual, do little or nothing with the playing rules after numerous changes had been suggested, was borne out at the annual session in New York yesterday. Only two alterations were recommended to the rule-makers, both of a minor nature. One, if adopted, will do away with the arbitrary award of the point after touchdown when the defensive side commits a breach of the rules. The penalty will be a loss of distance instead and the attacking side will have to play for its point.

The other change recommended is that the kicking side be allowed to advance the ball if it recovers the oval on a blocked kick. At present the ball is dead at point of recovery. The decision not to recommend the elimination of the point after touchdown will be approved by the great majority of fans. If it does nothing else it prevents a lot of tie games and there are too many ties even now.

Strib, Gob May Fight in Miami

OCHLOCKNEE, Ga., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The Striblings are ready for Sharkey—in Miami. Pa admitted yesterday he had advised William Carey, of Madison Square Garden, that W. L. was willing to face the Boston Sailorman under the spreading palms.

Pa also said W. L. was ready and willing to meet Sharkey or Schmeling in Chicago. He favored February or March as the time for the proposed bout.

ARMY IS FIRST TO ABOLISH EARLY GRIND

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—College football coaches and officials, it was apparent today, have decided to take the initiative in bringing about much-debated reforms and eradicating the alleged evils of over-emphasis.

After a season in which the great gridiron game, in spite of business conditions, has in many instances risen to new and spectacular heights, those shaping the destinies of the sport have decided it needs a pretty thorough overhauling and a substantial deflation unless it is to lose proper proportion in the college athletic scheme of things.

The ills now under diagnosis are not new. They were stressed at length a year ago in the Carnegie Foundation Report. They have been pronounced serious enough by the examining physicians, in annual session in New York, to warrant some prompt corrective measures.

TO CURB SUBSIDIZING

Chief among these, as developed by the consultation of football coaching experts and officials within the past two days, are:

1—Abolition of spring practice and limitation of fall practice for college football squads.

2—Active and immediate steps to curb the growing pains of subsidizing and recruiting.

3—Less emphasis on gate receipts, less prominence to the coaches' control of the play and less commercial influence in the make-up of schedules.

Salient among the steps already taken to bring the game back to normal is a definite move among leading eastern colleges and universities to abolish altogether their programs of spring training. This proposal, made by Maj. Philip B. Fleming, retiring graduate manager of athletics at West Point, has been approved wholeheartedly by a group of nearly a score of eastern institutions, already linked together in the "Association for the Selection of Eastern Football Officials."

The approval voted, while not entirely binding on all the colleges, was regarded today as one of the most important steps yet taken toward the elimination of over-emphasis. It is expected to have far-reaching effect, not only among those involved, but elsewhere in the country.

TO CUT SPRING DRILL

Army will not indulge in spring practice in 1931, for the first time in years, and the probability is that the Cadet policy will be followed in most, if not all of the following associated colleges: Navy, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Brown, Dartmouth, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Pennsylvania, Columbia, New York University, Lafayette, West Virginia, John Hopkins, Swarthmore and Syracuse.

The American Football Coaches' Association, after a somewhat stormy session, adopted resolutions presented by W. W. Roper, retired Princeton coach, and putting the body on record as opposed to "compulsory spring practice," or the start of "organized fall practice" prior to September 15.

Similar recommendations, earlier in yesterday's session as proposed by Hugo Bezdek, of Penn State, were tabled because they were linked with more sweeping reforms connected with the college athletic structure as a whole. The coaches balked at such proposals as the classification of their jobs with those of university professors and establishment of athletic plants under a general departmental heading of "physical education."

In proposing his resolutions, Roper urged the coaches not to run the risk of "losing their sense of values."

DAVIS HITS AT COACHES

As the principal speaker of the annual banquet last night, James J. Davis, United States Senator from Pennsylvania, urged the coaches to avoid the dangers of over-commercialism to which football has been subjected. He suggested specifically that coaches refrain from directing their teams from the benches, letting the captain take charge of the play. He emphasized that the coach's job should be finished when he prepared his team for any game.

Dan McGugin, of Vanderbilt, toastmaster, at the banquet sounded a warning against subsidizing and recruiting, chief topic of the Carnegie reoprt of 1929.

William A. Alexander, retiring president of the Coaches' Association, who will be succeeded in office by John F. (Chick) Meehan, of New York University, seized the occasion of his final address to answer two of the principal charges against football, namely that the game is being taken away from the students and that the colleges are buying their football teams from the star players developed in prep and high schools.

BOXING CZAR URGED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 30.—(INS.)—The committee appointed by Gov. C. C. Young to investigate prize-fighting in California today has recommended the appointment of a "czar," that the state athletic commission be controlled by former service men and that steps be taken to stamp out gambling in connection with the fight game.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: GEORGE O'DONNELL KICKED 109 CONSECUTIVE POINTS AFTER TOUCHDOWN—George (Bruip) O'Donnell, at present assistant coach at Iowa Wesleyan, made this unique record in actual competition while playing on the Billings (Mont.) High School team in 1920 and on the Denver University squad in 1921. The Billings High team scored 96 touchdowns in eight games and after each one O'Donnell place-kicked the extra point. While at Denver U., he ran his total up to 109 before he missed, then kicked 10 straight, missed again and kicked five more, making a total of 124 out of a possible 126 for the two seasons.

Replays of soccer cup ties will hold the spotlight on New Year's Day. The two games will be played in the city. At Westinghouse High School field, Clan Douglas meets Crafton Heights, and it is anticipated the Wilkinsburg team will win easily. This game will start at 2 p. m.

Bridgeville makes its first trip here, the Keystone Leaguers hooking up with the Pittsburgh Rovers at Leslie Park. The game starts at 3 p. m.

The Central League will sponser two games Saturday afternoon. Pierpoint Motors plays the Celtics, at Leslie Park, and Mesta Machine goes to Swissvale.

Over the weekend Morgan took Cecil into camp, and will represent Western Pennsylvania in the National amateur. This season the National body has guaranteed traveling expenses for the finalists.

If Morgan continues to have its players ejected from games, Howard Mangus will have a reserve team on the field. Morgan has the National open and National amateur tourneys to fight through and will need all of its talent. Cyle, former Heidelberg junior bid fair to become one of the finest fullbacks ever developed in this district. Augie Behling, of Cecil, is getting better with age.

The National amateur cup committee will be in town Saturday. Chairman Bill Angus and his aides have the next round draw to make. They will probably meet at the Hotel Pittsburgher.

Anticipating success where Dartmouth, Syracuse, Nebraska, Ohio State and Marquette met disaster, Ward Lambert's champion Purdue University basketball team hopes to match basket for basket with Pitt in the Stadium Pavilion tonight.

Ward Lambert

The Boilermakers have flaured in three championships in the last five years in the Big Ten, either winning or tying for the honor, and have wound up in second position on two occasions. In the last decade, Purdue has never finished below fourth place in the final rankings.

The Purdue five, which will show here tonight, is only a remnant of the great quintet that breezed through the Conference last campaign. Only two members of that great five remain, Johnny Wooden, one of the outstanding players of the country, and Harry Kellar. The great center, Stretch Murphy, is gone, and also one forward and one guard.

Coach Lambert, therefore, has a ball club three-fifth sophomore, but bulwarked by this fella Wooden. He is touted as being one of the greatest dribblers and floormen of the age, ranked on a par, if not higher, than Hyatt and the nemesis of every team he has ever opposed. He must be good, eh?

BEAT NOTRE DAME

Anyway, these sophomores have run over Washington University of St. Louis, Missouri Valley Conference Champs, and Notre Dame, so far this season. The team is on a two-game invasion of the East, playing Temple in Philadelphia Thursday night after finishing up with, or being finished by, Pitt tonight.

The confidence of the Panthers in their own ability was greatly boosted by the smashing triumphs over two of the ranking quintets of the East last week. Dartmouth and Syracuse. Pitt will take the floor tonight with sort of a ho-hum attitude toward the reputation of the Boilermakers, which is a very fine state of mind to be in for a tough ball game.

'BAMA, COUGARS VISITORS AT MOVIE LOTS

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—University of Alabama and Washington State College gridders saw the inside of another great amusement enterprise yesterday, when they visited Hollywood to witness motion pictures in the making.

The coaches, Wallace Wade, of the 'Bama contingent, and Babe Hollingbery, of the Cougars, were well satisfied with the result of the outing from a football standpoint. They thought their pupils needed a rest, as both squads were reported on edge for the big New Year's game, featuring the annual Tournament of Roses.

The two undefeated teams were entertained on different "lots."

SALE PASSES 60,000

With the charity game between Notre Dame and a West-South aggregation out of the way, and a clear football field left to the Tournament of Roses battle, interest has increased noticeably and it was announced the ticket sale had passed the 60,000 mark. Estimates of a crowd of approximately 75,000 were made.

Sparse wagering reported continued to favor Alabama. This condition was based on the early impression made by the huge linemen brought West.

Coach Wade steadfastly insisted his team could in no sense be made the favorite and Coach Hollingbery gleefully accepted the role of the under dog, declaring the psychology would be good for his side.

The coaches will keep their own counsel until the kickoff, but there will be many surprised rail birds if Alabama does not depend on sheer power for its offense and Washington becomes air-minded.

DIXIE TEAMS WORK

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Refreshed in mind and body after a day devoted to relaxation and tightly chaperoned sightseeing tours, football squads of the middlewest and southwest returned with zest yesterday to practice siege in preparation for Thursday's charity battle.

In particularly high spirits was the midwest squad as it romped through a single workout.

"This is one of the easiest teams to handle I ever saw," said Coach Bob Zuppke, of Illinois. "Although many of them have been playing against each other for three years, they have developed a fine team spirit and are rearing to go right now. That's about half the battle in football."

Among other things, Coach Zuppke has decided on his quarterback, the one position that had him worried. Stanley Bodman, big tackle of the University of Illinois, will direct the Midwest attack when he is in the game. Among the possible backfield nominations he listed Kissell, Purdue; Horn, Ohio State; Deig, Marquette; Molloy, Loyola, and Jensvold, Iowa.

BROADCASTING CUT

Five players on whom the Southwest is counting strongly were scheduled to arrive by airplane from Los Angeles last night. They are Jake Wilson, quarterback, and Bochey Koch, guard, both of Baylor, who played for the West in Saturday's charity tilt at Los Angeles, and Noble Atkins, big Texas Christian center. The other two were Louie Long, Southern Methodist end, and Louis Paradeaux, Baylor center.

At a meeting of Dixie classic officials, it was decided not to permit a broadcast of the New Year's game. As all profits go to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children here, the promoters said they felt the fans should be given no incentive to stay at home.

Fight Results

At Sioux Falls, S. D.—Jimmy Wilson knocked out Irish McKenna, 6 rounds.

At Tampa—Relampago Haguero knocked out (technical) Kid Dixie, 10 rounds.

The Sarah Heinz House, of the North Side, for years a prominent factor in the promotion of amateur basketball, ushers in a novel athletic program this week when four house leagues inaugurate their season. These leagues will enable more than 350 members of the Sarah Heinz House, ranging from juniors to seniors, to take part in basketball throughout the winter season.

George Taylor, who is starting his fourth year as athletic director at Heinz House, believes that basketball between the members is more popular than the usual representative team and as a result Heinz House will not have a quintet in one of the various local leagues for the first time in many years.

MEMBERS LIKE IDEA

That the radical change in policy has met with the approval of the Sarah Heinz House members is brought out clearly by the number of boys playing in the four house leagues. Ten clubs are enrolled in the junior loop, nine in the intermediate group and eight in the senior division. Each club is composed of 10 or more players. Besides these three, Heinz House sponsors the Cavode Club League, an organization composed of youngsters between 10 and 12 years of age.

Assisting Taylor in the operation of the various house leagues is the ever-popular Howard Francis, for years coach of the Heinz House representative teams. Francis, during his days as coach, turned out quite a number of noted basketball performers who later made good in scholastic, collegiate and independent ranks.

While supporters of basketball will regret the passing of Heinz House's representative team, the move has enabled the North Side officials to map out a program that will allow every member to play the popular winter indoor sport.

GOOD GAMES TONIGHT

Quite an attractive schedule of games will be offered the fans tonight. The big independent contest is listed at the First U. P. Community House on the North Side, where Coach Frank Stansbury's West Penn Leaguers engage Westminster College.

In the West Penn League, the Hoyles play at the Knickers, while the South Side Falcons oppose the North Side Burkx.

Monessen will be the attraction of the V. J. Greens at the Rankin Christian Center floor in the Tri-County League tilt. The Monessen boys, headed by Dr. Labowitz, are undefeated and should attract a large crowd.

PITT READY FOR PURDUE

game, Buzz Hogan's Carnegie Techers rallied in up-and-coming fashion last night to leap successfully the first hurdle of what promises to be a strenuous campaign and took Lehigh University, by a count of 41 to 31.

The Skibos, ragged and crude at times, put on a scoring burst in the second half that netted the triumph. Lehigh led by 21 to 16 at the intermission, but the attack of the Engineers went flooie completely during the second 20 minutes of battling while young Paul Smith, sophomore forward, and Red Fergus, guard, and the veterans, Capt. George Nease and little Jim Leonard, riddled their defense with a perfectly killing barrage of field goals. Young Smith was good for a quartet of beauts; Nease, Fergus and Leonard sinking two each.

Some excellent marksmanship on the part of Nemetz and Bray, of Lehigh, enabled the Brown and White to establish a five-point lead late in the first half after the teams had tussled and tugged through the first three quarters of play with honors about even.

FERGUS STARS

The score stood at 26-24 in Lehigh's favor when Fergus cut under the hoop for a basket and drew a foul. He made it good and the Skibos skipped out to a 27-26 lead, which they increased to a 10-point width with a hustling attack and scattered Lehigh's defense to the four winds, or as many winds as were blowing last night.

Fergus, an exceptionally cool youngster for a sophomore, was good for 13 points in all, scoring four field goals and five goals.

Carnegie gave indication of having really arrived as a basketball threat, needing only added experience and the resultant confidence to make it a really worthwhile outfit. The lineup:

Smith	F	Bray
Stentz	C	Ware

JACOBS BEATEN IN NET PLAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—E. Ramey Donovan, of Fordham Preparatory School, New York, scored a sensational upset in the national junior indoor tennis championship today by eliminating William Jacobs, the defending champion from the University of Pittsburgh, in straight sets in the quarter-final round. The score was 6-3, 6-4.

Bernard Friedman, of West Philadelphia High School, followed Hecht into the semi-finals by conquering Kendall H. Cram, of Nashville, Tenn., in a hard-fought two-set battle. The score was 6-4, 6-4.

Joseph Abrams, who eliminated James Spalding, the seeded No. 1 player, yesterday, today turned back J. M. Freudenheim, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., 6-1, 6-3, while Sidney Weinstein eliminated Alfred L. Jarvis, of Hackley School, N. Y., 6-4, 7-5.

Marco Hecht, of DeWitt Clinton High School, New York, and No. 3 on the seeded list, was the first player to advance to the semi-final round. Hecht played a clever brand of tennis to conquer Ray Palmer, Jr., of Mercersburg Academy, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3.

BETTING DECREASES

1930 BANNER YEAR FOR BASEBALL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Baseball should have nothing save good feelings for 1930, the departing year being very generous to the national game, despite a few geographical depressions.

The sport continues to be distinctively American in its aspects, although in far-off Japan the ball and bat game has come to be about the biggest thing in line of diversion, and in that land it is becoming stronger.

The major leagues' races of the year were very interesting, particularly the campaign in the National League, which enjoyed its fifty-fifth season of competition. Five teams of the Heydler circuit were in the flag scramble through a greater portion of the race, while four clubs went down in the home-stretch in one of the fiercest fights baseball ever has witnessed.

FOUR-WAY SCRAP

The Cardinals, Cubs, Giants and Robins held the interest of the whole country in the closing weeks of the scrap, the St. Louis boys eventually winning in the last series of the season.

The Athletics, of Philadelphia, had to step lively all year on account of the cleverness and skill of the Senators, of Washington. This competition was strictly a two-club affair with the Mackians being in front most of the time. The Macks' second flag in a row was followed by the winning of the second world championship emblem in succession. The titular scraps saw two evenly matched clubs, but the American Leaguers, through the exemplary pitching of George Earnshaw and Bob Grove, were able to land the honor.

Attendance records in the National League were smashed, with the Cubs being far out in front again in this connection. The Bruins, however, fell something like 20,000 short of breaking their home attendance mark which was established in the previous summer. This figure for home patronage is the highest in the history of the game.

'BREAKS' FROWN ON BUCS

Some of the other National League clubs drew well, although the Pirates experienced another unsatisfactory year at the gate. A long string of ailments in the early weeks of the pennant fight took many of the Buccaneer stars out of action; this turn of events militated seriously against the team's flag chances and there was a slackening of fans' interest in the wake.

The Babe Ruth appeal remained strong in the American League, with the Bambino having another big season. But Ruth had to doff his home-run kelly to the sturdy Hack Wilson, of the Cubs. Giving Babe a fight that thrilled fans everywhere, Wilson romped to the tape with 56 round-trippers. This performanc represented a new National League record and it was within four boundary belts of the mark held by Ruth. So Hack is sittin' pretty these winter days.

The National League showed the circuit's supporters two highly spectacular fellows in Chuck Klein, of the Phillies, and Walter Berger, of the Braves. Strong boys and fleet of foot, this pair made the welkin ring with homers and their fielding was brilliant. Wilson, however, was accorded unofficial valuable player's award.

TERRY LEADS HITTERS

Designated as the most sparkling performer in the American League was a fine boy who once wore Pirate spangles. Joe Cronin, now the Washington shortstop, had such a great season for the Senators he was voted the most valuable player in the junior circuit by the journalists.

Bill Terry, of the Giants, won the individual batting honors of the National League, with Al Simmons, of the diamond monarchs, copping the honor in the Barnard wheel.

ican battlers at their own game, has not had the effect of making other British boxers follow his lead, according to Len Harvey, middleweight champion of Great Britain, who is now in this country.

Harvey says that in England they still rely on straight boxing, depending for success on a left jab and a right cross, but he adds that they have learned something from the Americans. They have learned that they must develop a punch and be able to take one. The old type of frail, light-hitting English boxer, the tapper, is passing out, Harvey says.

Len Harvey

"IN MY 10 YEARS in the ring I have found out that the easiest fellow to beat is the one who rushes at me, swinging both hands in the American fashion, counting on his ruggedness and punch to offset my boxing skill," continues the leader of the British 160-pounders. "I also have found out that to keep him off I must have a punch and be able to take one, for it is certain that some punches will land on me now and then, though I haven't had to take many. What I'm getting at is that boxing skill alone isn't going to pull a fellow through against an aggressive boxer who can hit. Some of our boxers in the past, who tried it, ended face down on the canvas though they had been far out in front on points when their opponents landed. I'm lucky to be still going at 23, for when I was 16 years old I was boxing 20-round bouts. We've had any number of good boys burned out by overwork before they had matured, and I am in favor of limiting youngsters to six rounds or 10 at most."

EDDIE OUELLETTE

OUELLETTE NEW JACKET FIND

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Although President-Manager Roy D. Schooley has engineered no player exchanges or purchases recently, the Yellow Jackets hockey team has fallen heir to a new star.

The new idol of local fandom is Eddie Ouellette, an obscure reserve wingman a few games ago, who now is well on his way to clinching the center position on the starting front line.

Eddie, a chunky, black-haired youth of 19 who is playing only his second season in pro-hockey, was tested as a center in the battle against Windsor here last week. Coming on the ice as a spare, he showed so much class that he was permitted to team up with Cam Proudlock and Tory Gregg, star wingmen, before the fray was ended, and his play was a big factor in the last-period, three-goal rally that gave the locals a deadlock.

ADVANCE HIS REWARD

Capt. Gregg generally shouts "go in and get that puck, Eddie," when he or a mate misses a shot at the enemy goal, and Eddie generally succeeds to the extent of starting a wild scrimmage around the cage.

As a result of his fine work against Windsor, Ouellette was named as starting center against Syracuse, last Saturday night. In the second period he gave a brilliant individual exhibition to ring up an unassisted goal that proved to be the margin of the Jackets' triumph.

Although he tips the beam at little more than 160 pounds, Eddie never hesitates to exchange bumps with the biggest men in the circuit. His exceptionally fast skating makes him a capable backchecker.

Ouellette faces very keen competition for the starting center job, Mickey McGuire and Whitey Fields are pivot men of far more than average ability. The former is an exceptionally fine passer and pass receiver; the latter is a smooth workman when breaking through a defense without assistance, and both are fine shots. No other club in the International League has three centers who can match the Jacket trio.

Eddie had not yet "found himself" the last time the locals met the Buffalo Bisons, and the league leaders probably will experience something of a shock when they attempt to stop the Pittsburgh "find" at Duquesne Garden Thursday (New Year's) night.

BASEBALL PLAYER DIES

DENVER, Col., Dec. 30.—Enoch (Ginger) Shinault, 30, former catcher for the Cleveland Indians of the American League, and more recently with Kansas City and Little Rock, died here last night after a prolonged illness. He was stricken last July and has been in a local hospital since that time.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 30.—Charles Pjez, outfielder of the Giants in 1914 and 1915, was drowned here yesterday when his automobile skidded off Absecon boulevard into Beach Thoroughfare, a 10-foot canal.

New Year's Day is Jackie Rodgers Day at Motor Square Garden. When the local Negro featherweight boxer meets Johnny Datto, Cleveland Filipino, in the main bout Thursday afternoon, it will mark the third consecutive New Year's matinee at which the dusky knockout king has boxed in the top position at the Garden.

Last New Year's Day, Jackie won by a technical knockout over Pete Zivic in four rounds and the New Year's day before that he rallied from a knockdown in the first round to go the distance with the far more experienced Midget Mike O'Dowd, who won the decision. Incidentally, he is virtually matched to box O'Dowd again at the Moose Temple here, either January 9 or 16.

Jackie Rodgers

There is quite a story woven around the signing of the Datto-Rodgers bout for Thursday. Apples Meyers, promoter at the Moose Temple, had Rodgers booked for two bouts to begin Jackie's comback campaign following his long layoff because of an injured eye. In the first of these, Jackie knocked out Soldier Dombrowski, of Detroit, demonstrating he retained his old punch. He was to box at the Moose again Friday night, but Meyers released him from this date to permit him to box at the Garden the day before, and Jackie will have to go through with his second Moose bout later.

Meyers received $200 for releasing Jackie for the holiday date, which sum will be shared by the Garden, Rodgers and Datto, all of whom consider the arrangement a good bargain, for they are looking for a great house Thursday.

Between Rounds

The boxing commission sends out word that all promoters, boxers, wrestlers, managers, seconds and others requiring licenses must file their applications for 1931 before Thursday.

Tommy Freeman, the welterweight champion, has resumed training and will be back in action again soon. The flu has had him down every since he won the title from Young Jack Thompson.

Andy DiVodi, who has been getting a lot work at California rings, takes on Zendo Chavez in Mexican, in a 10-round bout in San Francisco, Friday night.

Jack Renault has been substituted for Mateo Ona, the Spaniard, as Pierre Charles' opponent in the windup of an all-heavyweight show in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night.

Harry Bittman, who is doing a comeback, will box the semi-final to the Benny Bass-Lew Massey junior-lightweight title fight at the Arena in Philadelphia next Monday night. His opponent will be either Al Gordon or Ralph Lenny.

Al Becker and Billy Brent, who box the six-round semi-final to the Jimmy Kelly-Young Rudy bout at the Moose Temple Friday night, are two of the most rugged middleweights in these parts. Both are good in the socking line, too, and, with a pair of clubs fighters in the main event as well, promise to make the card one of real action.

Tony Herrera has a non-title bout in the making with Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, in Detroit, January 23, and likely will box Eddie Brannon at the Moose Temple before them.

Motor Square Garden is working on and may close today a match between Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, and Billy Jones, former local Negro boxer, who has made his mark fighting out of Philadelphia, to feature the show planned for next Monday night.

STOCK MARKET MAKES DASH UPWARD

Announcement of Eastern Rail Consolidation Plan Agreement Boosts List

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The stock market received a vigorous boost today, after threatening ever since Christmas to end the year at the worst.

This lift came in the announcement that the eastern trunk line railway heads had finally agreed upon a consolidation plan. While it had been rumored for a fortnight that an agreement, urged by Washington, was near, Wall street had been skeptical, after a decade of futile negotiations.

The carrier shares made one of the most vigorous advances of recent years, a long list of shares advancing about 6 to 8 points. The market had shown a firm tone through most of the morning, but the list received a decided fillip from the announcement from Washington at midday.

It was notable that the rail shares as a group moved forward, the consolidation plan providing the necessary impetus for a general upturn, including stocks of carriers not directly affected. Wall street has felt, however, that solution of the eastern trunkline problem would lead to realignments throughout the country.

The weekly steel trade reviews, appearing a day early because of the New Year's holiday, also helped the share market. While ingot output is still around 30 per cent of capacity, the reviews indicate an early return to about 50 per cent, and less drastic shutdowns over the coming week-end than occurred over the Christmas week-end. It appears, however, that much of the contracting has been on the basis of prices before the recent increases.

Copper remained firm. Copper Exporters, Inc., making effective yesterday's quarter-cent increase in the domestic price. The price, c. i. f. European base ports, was jacked up from 10.55 cents to 10.80 a pound. Silver, however, continued to decline, recording a new historical low at 30¾ cents an ounce.

After shooting up to 4 per cent yesterday, call money renewed at 3½ per cent, and was steady to firm at that level.

RAILWAY BONDS EXTENDED

A plan has been proposed for the readjustment of the Wheeling Traction Company 5 per cent first mortgage bonds, which issue, amounting to $2,500,000, matures January 1, 1931. The plan contemplates a 10-year extension of their maturity to January 1, 1941, with interest at the present rate guaranteed by West Penn Railways Company until January 1, 1936.

A bondholders' committee has been organized, consisting of Robert Hazlett, president of Dollar Savings and Trust Company, Wheeling; William W. Holloway, president Wheeling Steel Corporation, and H. C. Ogden, West Virginia publisher, which committee has formulated the plan of readjustment and is recommending that it be accepted by all bondholders, who are requested to deposit their bonds either with the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, or Dollar Savings and Trust Company, Wheeling.

Acceptance of the plan by the bondholders will give the Wheeling Traction Company an opportunity to surmount the difficulties incident to the present industrial depression. The committee believes that the properties and equipment of the company are in excellent condition and that with the return of normal conditions operating income can be substantially increased.

STEEL TRADE PICKING UP

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The Iron Age, in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade, will say:

The iron and steel industry has passed through a year of drastic readjustment. Prices underwent an uninterrupted decline, failing to show signs of stability until late in the fourth quarter. Production, after a post-panic recovery early in the year resumed the recession that had begun in 1929.

Prices of finished steel, as measured by The Iron Age composite, were driven $5.83 a ton below their 1929 peak. The composite of pig iron prices reached the lowest level since November, 1915.

Steel ingot output in 1930, estimated at 40,000,000 tons, was 37 per cent lower than in the previous year. The rate of production, 65 per cent, was the lowest since 1921, a 37 per cent year. The average for the last half of 1930 was barely 51 per cent.

Current raw steel production is highly irregular, owing to the holiday interruptions, but may average 30 per cent for the week. An unlooked for post-Christmas pickup in specifications will probably prevent as general a suspension of mill operations this week-end as occurred between December 24 and December 29. Tin plate output is again above 50 per cent of capacity and sheet and strip mill schedules average 40 per cent. At Chicago, plate mill operations have held up unusually well.

The year-end dip in production was not unexpected, and interest is now centered in prospects for the coming month. Despite pronounced conservatism in the steel trade, each week in December has added to its confidence. There has been a steady gain in contracting for first quarter, although in the case of plates, shapes and bars it has been mainly at pre-advance prices.

December specifications, largely for January shipment, are well in excess of November releases.

RAILROAD CHIEF OPTIMISTIC

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—John J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Pere Marquette, said today that the fact that railroads have spent about $1,000,000,000 on improvements in 1930, unnecessary to move the decreased business, is a demonstration of the carriers' belief that better times are coming. He said:

"More than 20 per cent of all the employment in the United States is furnished by the railroads directly and indirectly. This fact is the key to why, during 1930, the country had a demonstration of the often repeated warning that it could not be prosperous if the railroads were depressed."

Pressed Steel Car to Earn Dividend

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

PRESSED STEEL CAR COMPANY will report earnings for 1930 sufficient to cover preferred dividend requirements. They will be smaller than in 1929 but, in all probability, will exceed profits for each of the four preceding years.

The company has approximately $14,450,500 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock outstanding. Dividend requirements on this are $1,010,135. In 1929 net profit was $1,729,335, which was equivalent to $1.83 a share on 394,685 shares of common stock after deducting preferred dividends.

Earnings for 1930 of slightly over $1,000,000 will be the greatest since 1924 with the single exception of 1929.

Few Cars Needed

DURING THE FOUR years preceding 1929 the company suffered from the lack of railroad car buying. The leading carriers were steadily increasing their operating efficiency. They were increasing the speed of trains and were constantly cutting down the time during which cars were standing still.

As a result of this the railroads were able to reduce the number of cars necessary for their operations. Shipping time which used to run into weeks was cut down to a matter of days. In the final months of 1928, however, the carriers found that the wearing out of cars had finally absorbed the surplus of equipment produced by more efficient operation. They again entered the market for new equipment.

1929 Business Good

THIS WAS RESPONSIBLE for increased earnings for Pressed Steel Car in 1929. But the business depression again checked railroad car buying in the final months of last year. As a result of this Pressed Steel Car had only a small volume of new orders during 1930.

The new year is being started with fewer orders for new cars on the books than at the beginning of 1930. The last order of consequence was for 350 box cars for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad. Other orders received during the final three months of 1930 have been small.

Year's Profits Favorable

EARNINGS SUFFICIENT TO cover preferred dividend requirements in 1930, when the volume of business was small, may be taken as evidence of highly efficient management. The outlook for 1931 is not particularly good, however, based on unfilled orders. Some railroad equipment men believe that the carriers will have to purchase new cars before the end of the new year. Unless this business materializes, Pressed Steel Car will earn less in 1931 than in 1930.

The company has maintained dividends on the preferred stock during its period of lean earnings but the organization's financial position indicates that payments cannot be continued indefinitely unless earnings are sufficiently large to cover these requirements.

At the close of 1929 current assets stood at $12,730,640 against current liabilities of $6,437,355. Cash amounted to $2,716,223.

TIGER HEART -:- By Robert Terry Shannon

Connie Worries About Her Sister's Future

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The day before her marriage to Jim Tracy, wealthy Connie Calvert learns through Duke Garson, underworld character, of the existence of a half-sister, Kitty, by her father's secret first marriage. Kitty, a produce of the slums, demands $100,000 for her silence. Connie, glad to have found her sister, offers to take her home. Kitty refuses. Connie is favorably impressed by Duke's magnetism. When Jim objects to her interest in Kitty, Connie breaks her engagement. She realizes Jim is mainly interested in her money and that she does not love him. Connie tells her mother about Kitty. Connie sees Kitty and learns of her laborious daily struggle for existence. Kitty goes home with Connie and is welcomed by Mrs. Calvert. When Jim visits he takes an interest in Kitty. Connie realizes the fact.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI.

Alone in her room for the night Connie owned to herself that she was invaded by unsettling apprehension about Kitty and Jim Tracy. There was nothing definite to worry her; just the tremor of intuition that had been sharpened by the vivid, changed circumstances of her life.

A nervousness, not quite a dread, disturbed her. Had it been possible, she would have blotted out the meeting between Kitty and Jim; but she had to admit to herself that some of this might be piqued vanity. Still, she made an honest effort to see the suggested danger in its true form.

She was sorry for Jim, for the blasting of his marriage plans, his humiliation, and the hurt he must have suffered. And for Kitty, too, she had an aching regret at the girl's niggardly past; what the future held for Kitty depended upon a Fate, at best capricious. Individually, these did not present problems excessively grave, but, placed together, they had the material of a conflagration.

Society Weakling

The situation wanted looking after, and should not be allowed to drift on negligently. Kitty ought to be protected from drifting into an affair with Jim, or, what might be worse, marriage.

All thought of intervention, Connie reasoned, lay in her superior knowledge of Jim's character, and that knowledge was increasing. She saw him, now, as a weakling of society; as a seeker, perhaps unconsciously, of unearned money; as a creature whose affections might be as unstable as they were intense. He was a natural philanderer, although circumstances heretofore had covered up that fact.

Against him, Kitty ought to be protected. In this Connie attained a selfless viewpoint. It was serious to interfere with anyone's natural drift, but the possibilities of deception for Kitty were too great to be ignored. Her life experience had not fitted her to comprehend the sterility of Jim's nature; Connie, herself, with far more social wisdom, had indeed been deceived until recently. Jim would take everything she had to offer and return nothing; any attempted happiness based upon love of him would inevitably end disastrously. The hard underworld wisdom of Kitty would not help her in this; she would be, practically, at the mercy of Jim's refined complexity. His would be the art of appearing vastly superior to any man Kitty ever met. He knew, too, how to reach a woman's heart.

Already, perhaps, he was visioning himself captivating Kitty; nor would he be unconscious that Kitty was to share whatever wealth Connie possessed. As a matter of fact, the money was not as plentiful as people might suppose. Always the tendency was to overestimate another's wealth. From odd remarks he had dropped, Connie realized that Jim imagined there was more of the Calvert money than really existed. He would look upon Kitty as a great heiress . . .

Financial Status

And, abruptly, Connie checked this line of reasoning; it was verging upon pettiness. Unless guarded, it might turn into animosity. The proposition was such that she could not discuss it with her mother; she would have to keep it concealed behind her outward conduct.

In the morning she faced the obligation of beginning to straighten out Kitty's financial status. This was a matter of honor and had to be attended to. It would be share and share between each girl. What belonged to Mrs. Calvert was hers exclusively; only Connie's resources were involved.

"After all, it's only money and nothing to worry about," Mrs. Calvert said. "A large part of what I have came from my mother's estate, and, of course, you won't be much, if any, worse off by dividing yours with Kitty; I'll see to that. You had better get in touch with Brant and have him straighten it out."

Brant was their New York lawyer. A long-distance call to him brought the information that he was out of town for a week. And, perforce, the settlement was postponed until he returned. Kitty, when told of the delay, waved it aside.

"Say, I'm not worrying about the money, Connie. I'll leave all that to you. I feel a little bit like I'm doing you dirt in taking it—but, really, it's mine, isn't it?"

Divides Account

There was no doubt whatever, on that score, Connie assured her. In the Stamford bank Connie had a sizable checking account; they went down in the afternoon and divided it, half being placed to Kitty's credit.

"This is all like a dream to me," she said. "Leaving out the money end of it, what do we do next?"

"There isn't must to do—except live," Connie acknowledged. "I think we'll be rather inconspicuous this summer, on account of my broken engagement with Jim, but we can read and ride and see some of our friends. That might sound awfully lazy to you, Kitty, but I assure you the mere business of staying alive is an occupation and for mother's sake, I think the house should be rather quiet this summer. You may find it dull, but I don't think you will."

Kitty smiled.

"It's all so new to me that I won't be dull for a minute," she said, a thrill in her voice. "There's ever and ever so much I've got to live for; for instance, I don't even know how to drive a car."

"I'll teach you anytime," Connie offered.

"That's swell of you—but you won't have to bother. Jim said he would teach me himself. He's coming over some time today in his roadster and take me out."

—THE PITTBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH—

"Bored?"

"Utterly."

Dick Preston laughed lightly, without meaning to offend Julie Clifford, but Julie was in a mood to easily take offense.

"You would be surprised to what an extent I am bored," Julie declared.

There were eight of them, all young, all modern, all seeking new thrills, the eternal "something new to do."

"How bored are you, Julie?" Kit Sherman asked.

"I just told you. You'd be surprised at how much I am bored."

"As if anything could surprise Kit," Val Castleman remarked.

"I am so bored that I am going to get away from it all," Julie announced, emphatically.

"We've just time for the angelus cocktail before we go up and dress," Julie declared, for, despite her sincere boredom, she was a perfect hostess.

Dick took his cocktail and sat down on the bench by the great silver gazing globe. He beckoned Julie. Rather reluctantly she went over to him.

"Bored at me?" he asked, rather quizzically.

"Yes, Dick."

"In particular?"

"No, not you in particular, but bored with you because you are one of the male sex."

"Oh, ho, what's all this? Are you planning to hie thee to a nunnery?"

"Perhaps, but I wasn't joking when I said that I intended to get away from it all."

Discuss Men

"Honey," he said, "no kidding, take me along with you and we'll get away from it all together."

His arm slipped about her waist naturally, and he started to rest his head on her shoulder. Julie slid away and stood up.

"That's the sort of thing that bores me," she said, angrily.

"Want me to do the cave man stuff and pet you with a club?"

"Much prefer it—it's more manly."

Julie moved away, then turned back.

"See you at the stroke of seven; we don't want to be late," she reminded him.

Dick and his three guests hopped in his car to go to his home, a half mile away. Julie and her three girl friends, who were spending the week-end with her, went in to dress. They were all to have dinner at the Singing Sands Beach Club that evening, and then dancing—and petting—the usual thing.

Two of the girls went to the room assigned them and Kit went in with Julie.

"What was that line for, Julie?" Kit asked.

"If you mean about being bored, it wasn't a 'line,' Kit, it was the goods."

"If I didn't know you so well I'd say we were boring you."

"Kit! How can you? It's the boy friends, all of them; they are all alike."

"I can," Julie declared, "and I will. There are scores of places, out West, up North, down in Texas, where the men are courteous and manly and respectful—regular men, no wise cracking saps, and I'm going to all of those places and meet them. That's what I meant by getting away from it all."

Kit stared at Julie and saw that she meant it.

"At that, I rather think you are right, Julie. I'd like to go with you."

"Dare you!"

Kit thrust out her hand. They shook.

Start on Trip

A few weeks later Julie Clifford and Kit Sherman set out for what was ostensibly to be a Coast-to-Coast tour. Julie's new car was more than adequate and both she and Kit's incomes were also more than adequate.

They had made their plans. First, to go down into Texas, then up to Colorado, and to Wyoming and into Canada, down into the Dakotas and on to Nevada.

In Houston Kit had a great-aunt who entertained them pleasantly. They met young people on several occasions. It was after the Saturday dance at the Lone Star Club that they held a conference.

"Nice big manly lads, I don't think," Kit said.

"Big hands, busy hands, and lines that weren't even funny," Julie said, crossly.

"I simply got up and walked away from that young lawyer, and you know I can stand a lot," Kit confessed.

"We'll be on our way Monday."

They were.

It was up in Wyoming where, at one of the real old-time ranches, no dude ranch about it, they met a crowd of men who gave promise of being "Pleasant, manly and respectful."

"Now," Julie said, after a chat with three of the men, "I see what they mean by talking about the great open spaces where men are men. You see I was right, it is possible to get away from it all."

"That Jedson Peterson, who owns the adjoining ranch, looks like a movie hero—he's wonderful—wonderful voice, and the way he sweeps his hat off," Kit raved.

"Well, you are back early—too much moonlight?" Kit asked.

"No—too much petting. How about you?"

"When I have to tell a sap that I'll slap his ears down you can bet he's a mighty forward party."

They went away from there, up into Canada. The young men they met there promptly told them that girls from the States had an idea that Canadian boys were slow. They proceeded to give the canard to that report.

"I'm invited to Cousin May's in Nevada," Kit said, when they were headed for the boundary line.

"What about heading due East?" said Julie.

"Due East, and don't spare the gas."

They made good time back home. In fact, they got back just in time for the end-of-the-season ball at the Singing Sands Beach Club.

The crowd dropped in at the Clifford place that afternoon.

"Heard you were back from the great open spaces, and I am overjoyed to learn that the report has not been exaggerated," Dick Preston greeted Julie.

That was all he said about her trip.

Walks With Julie

Kit and Tom Ormand drove over. Tom seemed to have something on his mind that pleased him. And Kit's older sister was flashing an engagement ring.

They went down the float and sat in the cabin of his launch.

"Julie, it was mighty nice of you to put the sun and blue sky and fleecy clouds and moon and stars back in their places."

He drew her head over on his shoulder and held her closely.

"How poetic and nice—you mean because I came back?"

"Couldn't you get away from it all?" he asked.

"Kit's sister has been talking," Julie stormed.

"Answer me?"

"No—so I came back to it all, Dick."

"Who is 'all'?"

"You are—please, my hair will come down—Oh, have a heart—I won't have a shred of liptsick left——"

The music came to them softly.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

(Lester Mc. Dermott.)

We all remember how it was in the play, back in the old days. Poor Father was about to be turned off the dear old farm, by the villain who had a mortgage on it, and said "Give me your beautiful daughter for my wife, or I'll foreclose."

Well, it's not just that way anymore. The sympathy is turning in these days, to the poor devil who finally has to take the land.

PARISIAN SEER TELLS WOT WILL HAPPEN IN 1931

After a lot of nudging, cajoling, wheedling and coaxing we have gotten Prof. Bubba au Rum, of Paris (Illinois)—society's favorite sight-seer—to tell our readers what is likely to happen in 1931. Prof. au Rum is a mystic, an Elk and a well-known community singer. He predicted the Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire, and is the only man who can tell what brand a cigar is by the way the butt has been stepped on.

By THE PROFESSOR

"Well, folks, how's every little thing out there in Newspaper Land?"

(We's O. K., Professor!)

"Your representative has asked me to make a few predictions for 1931. The way things look now, I would say, off hand, that the year 1931 will see some very prominent people in America applying for divorce. I also predict numerous traffic accidents. In consulting my periscope, I see no reason to conclude that the human race will be any more human than in 1930. I seem to sense that the world will succeed in getting limitation of disarmament. Business conditions will not be as bad as they seem, but we may not enjoy them as much as we did when they weren't as good."

Repairs and Taxes

Assurance That Rehabilitation of Rundown Property Will Not Bring Assessment Increase Is Welcome.

The burnt cat, according to the French proverb, fears cold water.

Similarly Pittsburgh property owners, crushed by high taxes, are fearful that even to improve the appearance of their houses may bring increased assessments. It is a rather significant commentary on the difficulty with which the burden is borne.

The facts have come out in connection with the Pittsburgh Housing Association's appeal to property owners to clean their premises, and paint and repair rundown buildings.

A number of persons told the association today they would gladly give directions for the rehabilitation of their property, the removal of rubbish and demolition of unsightly fences, were it not that they feared the improvements would be seized upon as an excuse for assessing the property at a higher figure for taxation purposes.

New Year's Eve Plans

Only a Minor Fraction of the People Will Be Gratified By the Extra Hour Allowed for Whoopee.

Supt. Peter P. Walsh, of the Bureau of Police, announces that cabarets will be allowed to remain open until 2 o'clock Wednesday night for celebration of the coming of the New Year. That is a concession of an extra hour for whoopee.

The announcement is regarded by many as of considerable importance. Such celebrations are a big thing in their lives. They feel it is their duty to usher in the New Year with drinking, dancing and uproarious mirth.

But after all they are only a minor fraction of the population. It makes no difference to the great majority that the cabarets are to remain open until 2 a. m. Long before that the majority will be in bed.

A Commendable Example

Pennsylvania Railroad's Plan to Settle Disputes With Employes Is Proved a Success.

Yesterday was the tenth anniversary of the adoption of an agreement by the Pennsylvania Railroad and its enginemen and trainmen under which grievances of the latter were to be settled by arbitration.

The plan has been proved a success. For 10 years there has been friendly relationship between the company and the employes with whom the compact was made.

Disputes arose, of course—hundreds of them. But they were settled amicably and without resort to the rancor-breeding methods formerly employed. In only one case has it been necessary even to call for the services of an outside arbiter.

This is a fine record; one on which both the railroad company and the enginemen and trainmen are to be congratulated.

It is also a commendable example, worthy the attention of other great corporations.

Horticultural Progress

Pennsylvania Has Achieved Enviable Position In the Field of Husbandry.

The Allegheny County Horticultural Association will hold classes in the North Side Carnegie Library next week, at which instruction will be given for fighting insect pests of the garden and orchard.

The enterprise back of this undertaking is characteristic of Pennsylvania agriculture, and is bringing valuable results, as a report issued today by C. G. Jordan, secretary of agriculture, makes plain.

Pennsylvania has attained an enviable position in the field of husbandry, which is all the more remarkable because we are accustomed to think of farming as a subordinate industry.

Secretary Jordan tells us that Pennsylvania is the only state infested with the European corn borer to show a reduction in the borer population when the rate of infestation in 1930 is compared with that of 1925. He also reports progress in the warfare against other pests of field and orchard.

In animal husbandry, too, some notable achievements are reported. For example, 78 per cent of the cattle in the state have been tested for tuberculosis.

These are things that affect the welfare of all the citizens.

Rights of Pedestrians

Motorists Will Only Have Themselves to Blame If Legislature Adopts More Stringent Rules.

There is a scarcely veiled hint in a statement given out at Harrisburg concerning the deaths and injuries of pedestrians struck by automobiles in Pennsylvania this year that the Legislature may be asked to adopt more stringent regulations for the protection of people on foot.

While the number of persons killed this year—837—is somewhat lower than last year's figure, the total number of foot passengers struck by cars the last 12 months was 3,000 higher than the number in 1930.

This leads Commissioner Eynon, of the Motor Vehicles Bureau, to assert that motorists are becoming increasingly careless of the rights of pedestrians.

Pedestrians, under the law, have the right of way at highway crossings except at intersections where traffic movements are directed by policemen or light signals.

Motorists, habitually ignoring the legal requirements that they yield the right of way to persons on foot, will only have themselves to blame if a more drastic law is passed.

The Epicure in Love

When a man who is looking for diversion meets a women who is looking for admiration, they strike a bargain—and call it "love."

Nature made man in a moment of experiment, and was delighted with the result. Then she got serious and made a woman—and lost her amateur standing.

In clothes, make-up and manners, the modern woman plays every trick to appeal to a man's senses—and then foolishly flatters herself that she has "won his heart."

It makes a woman happy just to inspire love. But the only love in which a man is interested is that which he feels himself, and nothing so annoys him as an unsolicited affection which he cannot return.

* * *

In the code of a gentleman, every woman is "the first, last and only"—until the next woman happens along.

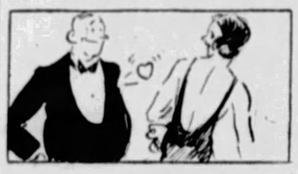
At 35 a man is an epicure in love, and it takes a subtle, clever and alluring woman to arouse his interest; but, by 50, he has recovered all his boyish zest and can go positively giddy over anything under 20 who flags him with a come-hither smile.



The art of conversation went out when wisecracking replaced repartee, smoking-car stories replaced drawing-room wit, and petting made thinking superfluous and talking impossible.

A butterfly in a snowstorm could feel no more lost or anomalous than a pre-war woman in a post-war world.

MENTAL HYGIENE

By Archibald Henderson

The rapidity with which the study of mental hygiene has grown within recent years is one of the most interesting in the field of science, as applied to mind. The first mental hygiene society in the world was established only 22 years ago.

Following the establishment of this first organization, the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene, there was established within less than a year afterward, through the efforts of this body, the National Committee for Mental Hygiene. On May 6, 1930, the First International Congress on Mental Hygiene was held at Washington. Mental hygiene is now a problem of international interest and is a subject of study throughout the world.

The leader of this great movement is Clifford W. Beers, author of the memorable autobiography, "A Mind That Found Itself." The treatment he received in an institution convinced him that ignorance and stupidity, rather than knowledge and sympathy, ruled in institutions for the mentally alienated.

He inaugurated this great movement in the hope of sparing many others the painful and sacrifying experience through which he had passed. The importance and urgency of the movement may be divined when attention is called to the fact that there are 1,000,000 young people walking the streets of this country today who, according to the figures of statisticians, are necessarily doomed to spend some of their time in institutions for mental disease.

The study and practice of mental hygiene follows, in its basic features, the attitude of the physician or the surgeon. In dealing with patients, the doctor is not concerned primarily with moral factors. He is a healer, not a judge.

The surgeon probes for the bullet, regardless of whether it was received in defense of the home or in the act of robbing a bank. The fundamental impulse is kindness and helpfulness; the fundamental assumption is that human life is in itself valuable.

The specialist in mental hygiene proceeds on this sound hypothesis, believing that life, health, mind should be saved; and that it is a matter of prime importance, both to the individual and to the community, that the way of living should, so far as possible, be improved.

One of the most important advances made in mental hygiene has to do with social mal-adjustment and personal unhappiness. Many a mind is fundamentally sound, but is suffering from remediable trouble resulting from minor psychoses and neuroses. Psychiatry has become an integral and essential feature in the practice of medicine today.

Science thereby seeks to study and to remove, not only the causes of personal maladjustment to life, but also the maladjustments which so constantly arise in occupation, affecting unfavorably not only the individual workers, but also industry at a whole. The Army and Navy have actively concerned themselves with the study of mental defects and disorder in the interest of the service.

Mental hygiene has now developed to the point where it follows three well recognized forms of procedure. It is concerned, first, with the therapeutics based upon the control of the stimuli to which the organism is subjected by its environment; second, a psychotherapeutics concerned in the effect to change the individual from within; and, third, prophylaxis is applied to this great problem in preventive medicine.

As Dr. William A. White has recently pointed out, mental hygiene presents a positive program for life well lived, for mental health because of its decisive value. Mens sana in corpore sano is properly phrased by Plato in the words: "My belief is, not that a good body will of its own excellence make the good soul, but, on the contrary, that a good soul will, by its excellence, render the body as perfect as it can be."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Soon you'll be given a New Year. Here's hoping! For what? That depends on you.

You can make a success of this next year—or a ghastly failure. And the thing that will determine that success or failure won't be "luck" or business conditions, nor even your own talent or hard work. It will be something to which you give little thought, yet which is the most powerful force in life. The success or failure of your new year will depend on your faith.

"Pooh!" you say. "What good is faith to me? Faith's just for religious people. Now I want something practical——"

You're wrong, partner. Faith isn't religious, and it is practical. Faith is that force which lies behind all achievement—bad achievement as well as good. Without it, we can do nothing. With it, we can do anything within reason—and a good many things that we dare not call reasonable!

Long ago a wise old man, who had done both good and evil, wrote this definition of faith:

What does that mean? Something very simple and yet miraculous—something you'll see demonstrated everywhere.

Look at that rug at your feet. Before that rug lay at your feet, it lay in its maker's mind. He saw, within his mind, the pattern of that rug. He wanted to make it—he believed he Could make it. It wasn't a negative, ga-ga sort of belief. It wasn't a mere wish to make a rug.

It was a strong, confident, unquestioning belief—so strong and confident that it swept aside all obstacles. It swept aside, first, the greatest obstacle of all—the fear and sluggishness of the man's own mind. After that, all other handicaps were easy. That fighting confidence was faith.

It created the rug in the man's mind before he copied it with his fingers. It was the "substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

Before anything is made by a man's fingers, it is made in his mind by faith. Faith comes before all achievement. By faith, men made houses and weapons and garments and traps and pictures and books and aeroplanes and radios.

By faith men discovered radium and electricity and gravitation and serums for smallpox and diphtheria and typhoid. As soon as men can achieve a thing in their minds, they can achieve it with their hands. And there does not seem to be any limit to what they can achieve if once they will open their minds to its possibility.

You want to make a success of this New Year, don't you? That's the way to do it. If you can think about your life in that way—if you have faith in health and happiness—if you can believe that you've a right to them—if you can build their pattern in your mind, so strongly, so confidently, that they override your own fear and sluggishness—then you'll have your success. For good fortune is all a matter of faith.

And, by the same token, so is bad fortune. Just as good times will come if a man believes in them strongly enough, so will bad times come if a man believes in them strongly enough. If you're all set for misery this New Year, Partner, you'll get it—never fear! For faith is a two-way force. It will clear your way to heaven or it will dig your pit to hell.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Hills of Life

As I rode into the hills today
The wind was keen and the clouds were gray,
The air was sweet with promise of rain,
And a pale mist floated above the plain.
While over the rim of the valley's cup
Still higher and higher I journeyed up.

The prospect widened before my gaze;
Topaz and turquoise and chrysoprase
The scene lay, carved like a precious gem
Set into the wide world's diadem.
And farther and farther Earth's beauty spread
Till it met the blue arch overhead.

As I ride on into life's great hills
I rise up farther from cares and ills,
While wider and wider the vista lies
Of joy and truth for my happy eyes;
Topaz and turquoise and chrysoprase,
Life's gems of gladness and peace and praise.

Text For Today Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.—Revelations, iii:20.

Think It Over

Drawn by Hal Coffman.

Mr. Coffman, who wishes every day were Christmas, suggests here a way to make it so.

It is simple, as you see. All that is necessary is to get rid of human selfishness. Shake it off, says Mr. Coffman, and you will notice the improvement at once.

Excellent advice, if a little difficult to follow. Selfishness sticks tight to most of us.

However, give the idea a trial and see what happens. Many have, and they report that it works.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—That glowering and rowdy section picturesquely named "Hell's Kitchen" continues to turn out gang fodder—undernourished youths who live by stealth. "Legs" Diamond, Philadelphia born, spent formative criminal years there, as did a dozen other racketeer chiefs.

Diamond was one of many whose playground is the gutter. They graduate from petty sidewalk pilfering to "wagon bouncing"—stealing from delivery wagons—and on to "ganging a cop." Potential "Legs" Diamonds are on every street corner at dusk, waiting for something to turn up.

They sleep mornings, and afternoons are spent in pool halls. They thrill to being pointed out as "tough mugs" and called such nick-names as Spider, Lefty, Dusty and such. All acquire a lip curl and the custom of talking out of the side of the mouth, prison fashion.

Their talk is the monosyllabic argot of the section—the staccato brand epitomized in "O, yeah?" and "K. O." No flights of ambition soar higher than leadership of a neighborhood gang, making forays on defenseless wayfarers and unprotected shopkeepers by sheer force of numbers.

It is not a part of their code to fight fairly, but always from ambush. Much has been made of their bravado, but invariably the gangsters dodge danger. Instead, they hire plugugllies, pump them full of dope, place pistols in their hands, and send them out to kill.

They have learned that in New York at least, if caught, they may buy immunity from a shamefully corrupt judicial system. The gangster has proved he has little to fear. So he swaggers, poses for tabloids and accepts money from women. Honest policemen know they are yellow and refer to them deservedly as "rats."

Gangsters do not squeal because they know they will be outnumbered and slain. Thus tight-lipped silence is often hailed as heroism. Yet police say not one, if certain of immunity, would hesitate to betray his own mother. And I'll not be going out after dark for a while.

Few New York gangsters are rugged physical specimens. Nearly all suffer from malnutrition of early years. Experts say heredity has little to do with their outlawry. They blame it all on environment.

* * *

Sharp proof of environment's part in gangster making is illustrated in a "Hell's Kitchen" case on record. Four tenement born sons were about a year apart. When a widowed mother could no longer support them, she permitted the eldest to be adopted by a cultured family in Oregon. The other three grew up in the turbulent streets and each served a prison term before 25. The eldest today is a successful physician in a California city, honored and respected.

* * *

"Hell's Kitchen" girls are [illegible] perky, gum-chewing and slang[illegible] types often attractive in a jovially brusque way. They go in for $1 hats, $10 suits, romantic movies and despite temptations, more often than not remain "good girls."

It seems they do everything but lay car tracks in my work-shop. Today a man has been installing a wall light, another planes away at desk drawers, a whistling Armenian rug weaver is under the edge of the carpet repairing a dog-chewed hole, and a window washer creeps around on the sill back of my chair. Another hour of it and I'm going to hunt up my Indian clubs and join them with a bit of juggling.

* * *

"Dear Fancy Pants" writes someone from down in Texas: "We caught a cow-hand using perfume here the other day. He spent 10 days in New York with a rodeo show and got that way. What kind of a man, if any, do you call him, and what do you suggest?"

Run the sissie down and whittle spat him!

The whistling Armenian rug weaver is out again. He has run out of thread and has to go back after more. In the meantime the typewriter has gone suddenly haywire. To make it a perfect day something should explode under my chair.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may be regretting the fact that some member of your family must look to you for food and shelter.

If you are like the majority you are not laying by enough for your own declining years.

Some relative or an institution must look after you and support you.

Of course, it is a fine thing to have been able to accumulate enough to care for yourself in your old age.

Every person should have this in mind and work for it.

Even a small-salaried man, by saving, insurance and sacrifice, can meet old age with the minimum of worry if willing to make the effort.

But the future need must be recognized in time—are you doing it?

Or are you drifting along with the thought that in some way you will be cared for.

ISN'T IT SO?

The only people who can afford to spurn the spark of genius are those with efficient press agents.

They are going fine if a man can keep up with the expenses and his wife can keep up with the neighbors.

It is safer to say all men are liars than to try to prove an individual case.

Too many young men are clamoring for more horse-power when they ought to be developing more will-power.
